

Contents

	Page
PREFACE	xiii
PREFACE TO THE SECOND IMPRESSION	xvi
INTRODUCTORY ESSAY:
The State of the Debate	Norman Gash xvii
A SELECTION OF EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS OF The Long Debate on Poverty	xxxi
PART I
1. THE CONSEQUENCES OF THE INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION IN ENGLAND FOR THE POOR	1
R. M. Hartwell
I. ECONOMICS, ECONOMIC HISTORY, AND THE HISTORY OF POVERTY	3
Three epochs of economic growth	4
Growth, not redistribution, the key	6
II. THE INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION IN ENGLAND AND ECONOMIC PROGRESS	7
Opposition to industrialisation	9
‘The century of progress’	10
III. POVERTY AND ITS CURE	11
Three concepts of poverty	12
Long-run reduction of poverty	14
IV. ECONOMIC GROWTH AND CHANGING ATTITUDES TOWARDS POVERTY	15
Material advance	15
Collapse of Malthusian fears	17
V. CONCLUSION	19
A SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY	21

PART II

2. THE TRANSFORMATION OF AGRICULTURE 23

G. E. Mingay

I. INTRODUCTION: THE DECLINE OF AGRICULTURE	25
Complex process	25
Effects of rising incomes and transport revolution	26
Slower change in Europe	29
Growth of farm protection	29

II. THE TRANSFORMATION OF AGRICULTURE IN ENGLAND	30
Early rise of large-scale farming	30
Decline of small farm owners	32
The debate on enclosures	32
Value of common land related to wage levels	34
Encouragement of small holdings	37

III. THE COURSE OF AGRICULTURAL LABOURERS' EARNINGS	39
Labourers' class structure	39
Varying pressures on labourers' wages	41
From rioting to education . . .	43
. . . and trade unionism	45
'Cash and kind' earnings controversy	46
Shortage of rural housing	47
'Poverty line' living standards?	48
Rising productivity and unionism	51
Health, physique and the appeal of the land	53
Improvement in living standards since 1939	54

IV. CONCLUSION	54
----------------	----

SUGGESTIONS FOR READING	58
-------------------------	----

3. INDUSTRIALISATION AND THE LIFE OF THE LANCASHIRE FACTORY WORKER 61

Rhodes Boyson

I. THE TRANSFORMATION OF A RURAL ECONOMY	63
The domestic system	63
The hand-loom weaver	64
II. FACTORY AND DOMESTIC WORKING CONDITIONS	66
Children's preferences at first hand	66
Benefits of factory work	68
The blackspots	69
Higher wages in Lancashire factories	69
III. EMPLOYMENT AND WAGES	71
Agricultural wages in Lancashire	71
Regular employment in the factories	72
IV. IMMIGRATION AND HOUSING	74
Irish immigration	74
Factory housing	76
The position of women	77
Movement of southern labourers to Lancashire	80
V. THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF EDUCATION	81
Education and understanding	81
Local involvement of employers	83
VI. CONCLUSIONS	84
Impetus to growth of 'self-help'	85
Rising standards of living	86
FURTHER READING	87

4. ASPECTS OF THE RELIEF OF POVERTY
IN EARLY 19TH-CENTURY BRITAIN 89

Norman McCord

I. THE APPROACH TO HISTORICAL UNDERSTANDING	91
Avoiding preconceptions	91
II. THE ROLE OF THE STATE	92
Lack of administrative expertise	93
Agent of last resort	93
III. THE EXTENT OF PRIVATE CHARITY	94
Network of charitable activity	95
The approach to charity	96
IV. NEWCASTLE CHARITIES: A CASE STUDY	96
The Infirmary	96
The Dispensary	98
Maternity hospitals	99
Help for the handicapped	99
Charity schools	100
The 'Ragged School' movement	101
Other charities	102
V. PRIVATE HELP AND SELF-HELP	102
Charity and 'self-help'	103
Government aid—direct and indirect	105
VI. CONCLUSIONS	107
FURTHER READING	109

5. WELFARE BEFORE THE WELFARE STATE	111
C. G. Hanson
I. 19TH-CENTURY ATTITUDES TO WELFARE	113
The standard of living	113
II. THE MACHINERY OF WELFARE	114
The Poor Law	114
Private charity	116
III. THE GROWTH OF THE FRIENDLY SOCIETIES	118
Misinterpretation of the statistics	118
Benefits and membership	119
Error in Beveridge's calculations	124
The extent of cover	125
IV. THE GROWTH OF SAVING AND THE PRESSURE FOR STATE PENSIONS	127
Upward trend in saving	127
Proposals for state pensions in the 1890s	129
Proposals for pensions divorced from Poor Law	130
Booth's scheme	131
Chamberlain's scheme	132
Birth of state pensions	133
Slow revolution	134
Contemporary misunderstanding of 19th-century welfare	135
V. IMPLICATIONS FOR PRESENT-DAY THINKING	137
The state's role in welfare	137
FURTHER READING	138

6. THE CLASSICAL ECONOMISTS,
INDUSTRIALISATION, AND POVERTY 141

A. W. Coats

I. INTRODUCTION	143
Protracted controversy	143
'Bouquets as well as brickbats'	144
'Industrialisation' broadly defined	145
II. STRUCTURAL CHANGES IN THE ECONOMY	145
Classical theory of economic growth	146
Material wealth and social welfare	148
Pervasive influence of Adam Smith	149
Effects of mechanisation on employment	151
The social consequences of factory employment	153
Long-term economic and social trends	156
Optimism of classical economists	158
III. POPULATION, POVERTY AND WAGES	159
Belief in benefits of laissez-faire	160
Population growth and restraint	161
Co-partnership the key	163
The problem of pauperism	164
IV. SUMMARY: POSSIBILITIES OF FREEDOM AND PROGRESS UNDER INDUSTRIALISATION	166
Principles and beliefs	166
Naïve optimists, humane reformers	167
Achievements under-estimated	167

PART III

7. FRIEDRICH ENGELS AND THE ENGLAND OF
THE 'HUNGRY FORTIES' 169

W. H. Chaloner and W. O. Henderson

I. THE LEGACY OF ENGELS	171
Manchester apprenticeship	171
Traditional upbringing	172

II. POLITICAL-LITERARY ACTIVITY	173
Published works	173
Frustration and bitterness	174
English translation	175
Standard exposition	176
III. SOURCE OF ECONOMIC HISTORY	177
Limited sources	178
Lack of judgement	181
Selected evidence	181
IV. REVOLUTIONARY BIAS	183
Indictment of the bourgeoisie	183
Historical evidence	184
V. CONCLUSIONS	185
SELECT READING LIST	185
8. INDUSTRIALISATION AND POVERTY: IN FACT AND FICTION	187
J. M. Jefferson
I. INTRODUCTION	189
II. THE NOVEL AS FICTION	190
Two main classifications	190
Literary failings	192
'Social conscience' criterion of merit	194
III. THE NOVEL AS ECONOMICS	198
A. Some General Propositions	198
The evidence for the general propositions	199
(i) A Golden Age	202
(ii) The standard of living	204
(iii) The quality of life	207
(iv) Political economy	209

The Long Debate on Poverty

B. Specific Cases	212
1. The Lancashire cotton industry	213
2. Iron and steel industry	220
3. Coal mining	223
4. Agriculture and miscellaneous trades	224
5. Tailoring	226
6. Chimney sweeping	228
C. Summary	229
IV. THE CONTINUING TRADITION	230
Contemporary criticism and teaching	235
V. CONCLUSION	237
INDEX OF AUTHORS	239