

Contents

Preface	vii
The development of an “impersonal” verb in Middle English: The case of behoove Cynthia L. Allen	1
Double trouble: Geminate versus simplex graphs in the Ormulum John Anderson—Derek Britton	23
Language and style in additions to The Canterbury Tales Norman F. Blake	59
The Middle English creolization hypothesis revisited Andrei Danchev †	79
Infinitive marking in Late Middle English: Transitivity and changes in the English system of case Olga Fischer	109 x
From syntax to discourse: The function of object–verb order in Late Middle English Tony Foster—Wim van der Wurff	135
Words in -ate and the history of English stress Piotr Gąsiorowski	157
Assessing the relative status of languages in medieval Ireland Raymond Hickey	181
Using the future to predict the past: Old English dialectology in the light of Middle English place-names Richard M. Hogg	207

When did Middle English begin? Later than you think! Peter R. Kitson	221
The Old English Anglian/Saxon boundary revisited Gillis Kristensson	271
Stress, survival and change: Old to Middle English Christopher B. McCully	283
Against the emergence of the nuclear stress rule in Middle English Donka Minkova—Robert P. Stockwell	301
- ing -constructions in Middle English Lilo Moessner	335
Concessive clauses in Chaucer's prose Rafal Molencki	351
Middle English nonrestrictive expository apposition with an explicit marker Saara Nevanlinna—Päivi Pahta	373
On the beginning and development of the begin to construction Michiko Ogura	403
The Peterborough Chronicle diphthongs Betty S. Phillips	429
Middle English phonetics: A systematic survey including notes on Irish and Welsh loanwords Herbert Pilch	439
Quasi-impersonal verbs in Old and Middle English George G. Pocheptsov	469
Like father (un)like son: A sociolinguistic approach to the language of the Cely family Helena Raumolin-Brunberg—Terttu Nevalainen	489
Whatever happened to the Middle English indefinite pronouns? Matti Rissanen	513

Mutation, variation and selection in phonological evolution: A sketch based on the case of Late Middle English a > au/_1{C/#} Nikolaus Ritt	531
Handmade tales: The implications of linguistic variation in two early manuscripts of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales Jeremy J. Smith	551
Middle (and Old) English prerequisites for the Great Vowel Shift Albertas Steponavičius	561
Exclamations in Late Middle English Irma Taavitsainen	573
Index of names	609
Index of subjects	617