

CONTENTS

Preface	page ix
Chapter 0. Introduction	I
0.1. Preliminary Observations	I
0.2. Theoretical Framework	2
0.3. Acoustic Prominence and Metrical Significance	5
0.4. Meter and Rhythm	6
Chapter 1. The Foot	8
1.1. Words	8
1.1.1. Unstressed Prefixes	8
1.1.2. Compound Formations	9
1.1.3. Function Words	10
1.1.4. Summary	10
1.2. Word Patterns	11
1.3. Derivation of Foot Patterns from Word Patterns	12
1.4. A List of Allowable Foot Patterns	13
1.5. Word Groups within the Foot	14
1.5.1. Labeling Mismatches	14
1.5.2. Bracketing Mismatches	15
1.6. Extrametrical Words	19
1.7. A List of Allowable Foot Pairings	20
1.8. Nonexistent Feet and Unmetrical Verses	23
Chapter 2. The Verse	25
2.1. Identification of Verse Patterns	25
2.2. Some Impossible Verse Patterns	26
2.3. Overlap	26

Contents

2.4. A Coherent Set of Reliably Attested Patterns	28
2.5. Constraints on Deviation from the Norm	28
2.6. The Importance of Generalized Constraints	31
Chapter 3. Light Feet and Extrametrical Words	33
3.1. Long Strings of Function Words	33
3.2. Anacrusis and Light Feet	33
3.3. Constraints on Anacrusis in Complex Verses	34
3.4. Interpretation of Borderline Cases	34
3.5. Constraints on Isolated Prefixes	36
3.6. Anacrusis and Whole-verse Compounds	37
3.7. Extrametrical Words in some Notorious Cruxes	37
3.8. Summary	38
Chapter 4. Interpretation of Ambiguous Linguistic Material	39
4.1. Systematic Exceptions	39
4.2. Alternative Interpretations of Contract Forms	39
4.3. Formal Statement of Prosodic Rules	41
4.4. Alternative Interpretations of Epenthetic Vowels	42
4.5. Dating Paradoxes	43
4.6. The Poet's Feeling for Language	44
4.7. Metrical Alternants	44
4.8. Formal Rules for Resolution	44
Chapter 5. Relative Frequency and Metrical Complexity	47
5.1. Obstacles to Statistical Studies	47
5.2. Diverse Sources of Complexity	48
5.3. Metrical Closure	49
5.4. Varying Types of Complexity in Combination	50
5.4.1. Resolution and Enumeration of Feet	51
5.4.2. Peculiarities of the Ss Foot Pattern	52
5.4.3. Some Problems Involving Resolution and Metrical Closure	54
5.5. Less Significant Forms of Metrical Ambiguity	56
5.6. The Poet's Sensitivity to the Two-word Norm	58
Chapter 6. Hypermetrical Verses	59
6.1. Clustering	59
6.2. Hypermetrical Patterns in the First Half-line	59

Contents

6.3. Hypermetrical Verses and Normal Verses	61
6.4. Hypermetrical Patterns in the Second Half-line	61
6.5. Isolated Normal Verses	62
6.6. The Motivation for Hypermetrical Patterns	62
Chapter 7. Alliteration	64
7.1. The Equivalence Rule	64
7.2. Alliteration and the Relative Prominence of Words	65
7.3. Positional Constraints on Alliterating Syllables	65
7.4. Linguistic Compounding	67
7.5. Metrical Compounding	71
7.5.1. Metrical Compounding in Verses with Light Feet	73
7.5.2. Metrical Compounding in Heavy Verses	75
7.5.3. Metrical Compounding in Reversed Patterns	76
7.5.4. Peculiarities of Verses with an Ss Foot	79
7.5.5. Alliteration in Light Verses	80
7.6. Implications	81
Chapter 8. Metrical Subordination within the Foot	83
8.1. Double Alliteration in the First Half-line	83
8.2. Categorical Restrictions on Alliteration in Heavy Verses	84
8.3. Metrical Compounding of Small Feet into Larger Feet	86
8.4. Word Groups and Genitive Compounds	91
8.5. Poetic Compounds and Word Groups	92
8.6. Editorial Misunderstanding of Poetic Compounds	96
8.7. Alliteration in Hypermetrical Verses	98
8.8. Hypermetrical Verses and Normal Verses	100
Chapter 9. Words of Classes B and C	101
9.1. Emphatic Verbs and Unemphatic Verbs	101
9.2. Metrical Interpretation of Weakly Stressed Syllables	101
9.3. Alliteration and Function Words	102
9.4. Metrical Differences between Unemphatic Verbs and Function Words	103
9.5. Interpretation of Trisyllabic Verb Forms	105
9.6. Interpretation of Verse-medial Finite Verbs	106