

Contents

Acknowledgments	vi
Preface	ix
Introduction Writing Wrongs: Postcolonial Literature and the (Im)possibility of Forgiveness and Reconciliation	3
1 Horizons of Justice: Notes toward a Theory of Postcolonial Forgiveness and Reconciliation	24
2 Unsettling the Settler Postcolony: Uncanny Pre-Occupations in David Malouf's Remembering Babylon	59
3 Vigils amid Violence: Mourning the Dead and the Disappeared in Michael Ondaatje's Anil's Ghost	86
4 The Future of Racial Memory: Redressing the Past in Joy Kogawa's Obasan and Itsuka	111
5 The Agonistics of Absolution: Responsibility and the Right of Grace in J.M. Coetzee's Disgrace	147
Conclusion	179
Epilogue	186
Notes	191
Bibliography	214
Index	229