

Contents

Preface	v
List of abbreviations	xv
Chapter 1. “Mystery features” of Old and Middle English	1
1.0. Introduction	1
1.1. Approaches to mystery features	2
1.1.1. Traditional approaches	2
1.1.2. Discourse analytic approaches	5
1.1.3. Approach taken in this study	7
1.2. The diachronic study of pragmatic markers	9
1.2.1. Single lexical items	9
1.2.2. Phrases	16
1.2.3. Morphosyntactic forms	18
1.2.4. Forms of discourse	24
1.3. Overview of the current study	25
Chapter 2. Conceptual background	29
2.0. Introduction	29
2.1. Pragmatic markers	29
2.1.1. Definition of pragmatic markers	30
2.1.2. Diversity of pragmatic markers	31
2.1.3. Characteristics of pragmatic markers	32
2.1.4. Functions of pragmatic markers	35
2.2. Structure of narrative discourse	40
2.2.1. Events	40
2.2.2. Episodes	41
2.3. Grounding	44
2.3.1. Foregrounding and backgrounding	45
2.3.2. Content criteria	47
2.3.3. Formal criteria	48

2.4.	Grammaticalization	50
2.4.1.	Description of the grammaticalization process	50
2.4.2.	Development of pragmatic markers	59
2.5.	Conclusion	64
Chapter 3. Middle English gan		67
3.0.	Introduction	67
3.1.	History of gan	67
3.2.	Distribution of gan in Middle English texts	69
3.3.	Metrical function of gan	69
3.3.1.	Restricted distribution	69
3.3.2.	Equivalent constructions	70
3.3.3.	Viability of metrical arguments	71
3.4.	Stylistic function of gan	72
3.5.	Textual function of gan	74
3.5.1.	Internal evidence for the textual function of gan	75
3.5.2.	Comparative evidence for the textual function of gan	78
3.5.3.	Textual function of gan outside Chaucer	79
3.6.	Development of gan	79
3.7.	Conclusion	82
Chapter 4. Middle and Early Modern English anon		85
4.0.	Introduction	85
4.1.	Anon in Middle English	85
4.1.1.	Anon in Troilus and Criseyde	88
4.1.2.	Anon in Le morte d'Arthur	97
4.1.3.	Comparison with now in Modern English	101
4.1.4.	Evaluative function of anon	103
4.2.	Anon in Early Modern English	104
4.3.	Semantic development of anon	105
4.3.1.	Change within the propositional component	106
4.3.2.	Acquisition of textual functions	108
4.3.3.	Acquisition of interpersonal function	109
4.4.	Grammaticalization of anon	110
4.5.	Conclusion	112

Chapter 5.	Old English episode boundary markers	115
5.0.	Introduction	115
5.1.	The gelamp -construction	116
5.1.1.	Textual distribution	116
5.1.2.	Contexts of occurrence	117
5.1.3.	Accompanying adverbials	126
5.2.	Grounding functions of the gelamp -construction	128
5.2.1.	Grounding of the complement clause	128
5.2.2.	Grounding of the adverbial clause	135
5.2.3.	Function of the matrix clause	140
5.3.	Syntactic status of constituents of the gelamp -construction	141
5.4.	Grammaticalization of the gelamp -construction	142
5.5.	Conclusion	143
Chapter 6.	Middle English episode boundary markers	145
6.0.	Introduction	145
6.1.	The bifel -construction	145
6.1.1.	Bifel -constructions in Chaucer and Malory	150
6.1.2.	Decline of the bifel -construction	163
6.2.	Preposed whan -clauses	165
6.2.1.	Whan -clauses in Chaucer and Malory	165
6.2.2.	Grounding of whan -clauses	174
6.2.3.	Function of whan -clauses	175
6.3.	Shift from the bifel -construction to whan -clauses	177
6.4.	Conclusion	179
Chapter 7.	Old English hwæt	181
7.0.	Introduction	181
7.1.	Uses of hwæt in verse	181
7.2.	Meaning of hwæt in verse	185
7.2.1.	Comparison with you know in Modern English	185
7.2.2.	Functions of hwæt	187
7.2.3.	Evidential implications of hwæt	189
7.3.	Meaning of hwæt in prose	192
7.3.1.	Uses of hwæt þa	193
7.3.2.	Functions of hwæt þa	194
7.3.3.	Comparison with so in Modern English	197

7.4.	Development of hwæt	199
7.5.	Rise of you know	206
7.6.	Conclusion	210
Chapter 8. Middle English I gesse		211
8.0.	Introduction	211
8.1.	First-person epistemic parentheticals in Middle English	212
8.2.	First-person epistemic parentheticals in Chaucer	215
	8.2.1. Contexts of occurrence	217
	8.2.2. Functions in discourse	227
	8.2.3. Functions in narrative	236
8.3.	Development of first-person epistemic parentheticals	239
	8.3.1. Semantic development: from evidential to epistemic	243
	8.3.2. Syntactic development: from main clause to parenthetical	244
	8.3.3. Grammaticalization	253
8.4.	Non-first-person epistemic parentheticals in Chaucer	254
	8.4.1. God woot	255
	8.4.2. Trusteth me wel	261
8.5.	Conclusion	263
Chapter 9. Concluding remarks		265
9.0.	"Mystery features" as pragmatic markers	265
9.1.	Properties of pragmatic markers in earlier English	265
9.2.	Textual functions of pragmatic markers in earlier English	268
9.3.	Interpersonal functions of pragmatic markers in earlier English	270
9.4.	Grammaticalization of pragmatic markers	272
	9.4.1. Morphosyntactic aspects	273
	9.4.2. Semantic/ pragmatic aspects	275
	9.4.3. Textual parameters	277
9.5.	Continuity of pragmatic markers	278
Appendices		279
Appendix A.	Substantive studies of individual pragmatic markers in Modern English	279
Appendix B.	Typologies of pragmatic markers in Modern English	282
Appendix C.	Occurrences of gan in Troilus and Criseyde	285
Appendix D.	Cooccurrence of adverbials with gan in Troilus and Criseyde	295

Appendix E. Episodic structure and occurrences of anon and gan in Book II of Troilus and Criseyde	297
Appendix F. Occurrences of anon in Books 6, 11, and 16 of Le morte d'Arthur	302
Appendix G. Bifel -constructions in The Canterbury tales	304
Appendix H. Bifel -constructions in Le morte d'Arthur	306
Appendix I. Preposed whan -clauses in "The Knight's tale"	309
Appendix J. Preposed whan -clauses in Book 16 of Le morte d'Arthur	311
Appendix K. First-person epistemic parentheticals in The Canterbury tales	313
Appendix L. First-person epistemic parentheticals in Troilus and Criseyde	319
Appendix M. Occurrences of God woot in The Canterbury tales	323
Appendix N. Occurrences of God woot in Troilus and Criseyde	327
Appendix O. Occurrences of trusteth me wel in The Canterbury tales	329
Notes	331
References	361
Index	405