

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	I

PART I: METHODOLOGY

1 Preliminary considerations	5
1.1 Nonlinguistic variation	5
1.2 The vernacular	5
1.3 Speech style	6
1.4 The Observer's Paradox	7
1.5 Adolescents as a source of data	8
1.6 The elderly as a source of data	11
1.7 Vernacular culture	12
2 Data collection	13
2.1 The adventure playgrounds	13
2.2 Recording procedures	14
2.3 The data	15
2.4 The speakers	21
2.4.1 Ages of speakers	22
2.4.2 Linguistic backgrounds of speakers	23
2.4.3 Occupations of parents	24
3 Methods of analysis	26

PART II: LINGUISTIC VARIATION

4 Verb forms	31
4.1 Present tense verb forms	31
4.1.1 Present tense forms of HAVE	32
4.1.2 Linguistic change and HAVE	33
4.1.3 Present tense forms of DO	34
4.1.4 Linguistic change and DO	36
4.1.5 Linguistic constraints on regular present tense verb forms	39
4.1.6 The following complement constraint	39
4.1.7 The 'vernacular verb' constraint	42
4.2 Past tense verb forms	44
4.2.1 Past tense forms of BE	44

4.2.2 Other past tense forms	46
4.3 Tense in conditional sentences	49
5 Negation	51
5.1 Ain't	51
5.1.1 Standard English forms	52
5.1.2 Linguistic constraints on ain't	52
5.1.3 Derivation of ain't	53
5.1.4 Phonetic realisations of ain't	54
5.1.5 Semantic functions of tag questions	57
5.1.6 Continuing linguistic change in the form of ain't	61
5.2 Negative concord	63
5.2.1 Negative concord in Reading English	63
5.3 Never	67
5.3.1 Never as a negative preterite	67
5.3.2 Linguistic constraints on never	69
5.3.3 Syntactic status of never	70
6 Relative pronouns	72
6.1 Forms of the relative pronoun	72
6.2 Comparison with standard English forms	73
6.3 Linguistic constraints on forms of the pronoun	74
7 Other nonstandard forms	76
7.1 Prepositions	76
7.2 Demonstratives	78
7.3 Reflexive pronouns	79
7.4 Nouns of measurement	79
7.5 Adverbial constructions	80
7.5.1 Comparative adverbs	80
7.5.2 Non-distinction of adverbial and adjectival forms	80
7.6 'Intrusive' -s	81
 PART III: SOCIOLINGUISTIC VARIATION
8 Social variation	85
8.1 Sociolinguistic analyses	85
8.2 Variation with sex of speaker	85
8.3 Variation with peer group status	87
8.4 The 'vernacular' and 'legitimate' sub-cultures	94
8.4.1 The vernacular culture index	97
8.4.2 Linguistic markers of adherence to the vernacular culture	102
8.5 Vernacular culture and its effect on girls	106
9 Stylistic variation	112
9.1 Constraints on speech style	112
9.2 The school recordings	113
9.3 Variation in speech style	114

Contents    vii

Conclusion	127
Appendix	132
Bibliography	134
Index of authors	138
General index	140