Contents

Acknowledgements		vii
Not	Notes on Contributors
	Introduction Claire Westall and Michael Gardiner
Pa	t I The Politics of English Independence
1	Understanding the Post-British English Nation State Andrew Mycock	15
2	The Future of 'the Global Kingdom': Post-Unionism, Post-Nationalism and the Politics of Voice, Loyalty, and Exit Gerry Hassan	31
3	'England Is the Country and the Country Is England': But What of the Politics? Arthur Aughey	46
Pa	rt II England in English Literature's Canon
4	Romantic Englishness: Periodical Writing and National Identity After the Napoleonic Wars David Higgins	63
5	'Out-of-the-Way Asiatic Disease': Contagion, Malingering, and Sherlock's England Upamanyu Pablo Mukherjee	77
6	A. J. Cook, D. H. Lawrence, and Revolutionary England: Discourses and Performances of Region and Nation in 1926 Simon Featherstone	91
7	'England Am I': Eugenics, Devolution, and Virginia Woolf's Between the Acts John Brannigan	103
8	Orwell's England and Blair's Britain: Warm Beer and Cold War	116

9	Anticipating the Neoliberal Nation: Philip Larkin and the Displacement of Englishness Graham MacPhee	130
Par	t III England's Contemporary Literary Landscape
10	J. G. Ballard's Traumatised and Traumatising Englishness Philip Tew	147
11	England, Devolution, and Fictional Kingdoms Christine Berberich	162
12	Black British Writing and Post-British England John McLeod	175
13	Devolution and Cultural Catch-Up: Decoupling England and its Literature from English Literature Hywel Dix	188
Paı	rt IV English Literature as British Ideology
14	English Literature as Ideology Michael Gardiner	-203
15	The New Rise and Fall of English Literature Claire Westall	218
Afterword Anthony Barnett		234
Select Bibliography		240
Index		247