Foreword by Nathan Epstein xii

1 Integrated family therapy: an overview	1
INTRODUCTION	1
WHAT IS BEING INTEGRATED?	2
Introduction	2
The McMaster model of family therapy	3
Psychoanalytic family therapy	5
Structural family therapy	6
THE PRACTICAL IMPLICATIONS OF AN INTEGRATED APPROACH	6
2 The historical development of the McMaster model	8
THE NON-CLINICAL DATA BASE	8
THE EMPHASIS ON TRAINING: CONCEPTUAL, PERCEPTUAL AND EXECUTIVE SKILLS	9
THE MACRO STAGES OF THERAPY	10

3 Central concepts of the model of family functioning	12
BASIC ASSUMPTIONS	12
THE DIMENSIONS OF FAMILY FUNCTIONING:	15
Problem solving	15
Communication	17
Roles	18
Affective responsiveness	20
Affective involvement	21
Behavioural controls	23
Summary – the dimensions of family functioning	24
BASIC DYSFUNCTIONAL TRANSACTIONAL PROCESSES	24
Displacement	25
Scapegoating	26
Triangulation	26
Family beliefs and family myths	26
Projective identification	27
Persistent dysfunctional communication	27
Manic defences against depression	27
Defences against schizoid anxieties	28
THE CONTRIBUTION OF STRUCTURAL CONCEPTS TO THE UNDERSTANDING OF FAMILY FUNCTIONING	28
Introduction	28
Key concepts of the structural model	29
Sub-systems and boundaries	29
Isomorphism	32
The enmeshment–disengagement continuum	32
Flexibility of family structure	33
4 The macro stages of therapy	36
ASSESSMENT	36
Orientation	36
Data gathering and problem description:	38
General comments	38
Presenting problems	38
Building a comprehensive picture of family functioning	39
History	40

Assessing significant dysfunctional transactional patterns	42
Problem clarification	42
Formulation	44
The contribution of structural concepts and techniques to assessment	48
Introduction	48
Exploring reciprocity	49
Enactment: action techniques used to elicit dysfunctional transactional patterns	49
The use of metaphors	51
Some alternative methods of establishing a structural formulation	52
CONTRACTING	52
TREATMENT	55
General considerations	55
Task setting	55
Task evaluation	57
Interpretations and containment	60
Experiential techniques used within the session	60
The contribution of structural concepts to effecting change in family systems	61
Introduction	61
The therapist as central change agent and leader	62
Joining	62
Working with disequilibrium	64
Sequential change	64
CLOSURE	69
5 Executive skills	70
INTRODUCTION	70
SOME GENERAL ISSUES	70
THE EXECUTIVE SKILLS CATEGORIES	71
Establishing and maintaining a focus in the session	71
Clarifying and expanding communication	72
Stimulating transactions	72
Labelling and interpreting transactions	72
Summary – the executive skills categories	73

viii / Integrated Family Therapy

A CASE ILLUSTRATION	74
THE APPLICATION OF EXECUTIVE SKILLS TO AN INITIAL ASSESSMENT INTERVIEW	76
THE APPLICATION OF EXECUTIVE SKILLS TO THERAPY	82
THE CONTRIBUTION OF STRUCTURAL TECHNIQUES TO MICRO-EXECUTIVE SKILLS	83
Introduction	83
Specific structural techniques	84
Techniques for challenging the symptom	85
Techniques for challenging the family's structure	86
Techniques for challenging the family reality	87
General principles for the use of structural techniques	88
A case illustration	89
6 Implications for practice	97
BASIC FRAMEWORK	97
Introduction	97
The advantages of a basic framework	98
Dealing with complexity – the limitations of a basic framework	98
EXPANDING THE BASIC FRAMEWORK: THE INTEGRATION OF DIFFERENT THERAPEUTIC MODELS	101
Introduction	101
The integration of structural techniques with PCPFT	102
The issue of therapeutic openness	102
Therapist as facilitator versus therapist as organizer	103
Micro executive skills	104
The integration of psychoanalytic theory and techniques with PCPFT	105
Introduction	105
The contribution of psychoanalytic interpretations and the role of transference	105
Some common difficulties in integrating psychoanalytic concepts and techniques with PCPFT	108

PCPFT – THE APPLICATION OF AN INTEGRATIVE APPROACH	109
Varying the emphasis of therapy	109
The range of application of PCPFT to different types of family	111
The limits of collaborative relationships	112
Contextual issues	114
The application of family therapy in different professional settings	114
Integration with other approaches to treatment	114
Social control and PCPFT	116
7 Training in PCPFT	119
GENERAL ISSUES	119
Three basic principles of training	119
Training should be sequential	119
Learning objectives should be defined	120
Training should be evaluated	120
The context of training	120
Eclecticism	121
Personal therapeutic experience	122
CURRICULUM FOR AN INTRODUCTORY TRAINING COURSE IN PCPFT	123
Introduction	123
Phases 1 and 2	124
Phase 3	128
SUMMARY	129
8 Family therapy research and outcome studies: implications for PCPFT	130
A GENERAL REVIEW	130
Research into family functioning	131
Research into family therapy process and treatment outcome	131
Research method in outcome research	131
Micro aspects of therapy	132
Comparability and control in treatment outcome studies	133
Outcome measures	134
Research issues related to training	135
