

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	viii
1 Introduction	1
2 Economic Sense and Sensibility in David Simple , Tom Jones and The Countess of Dellwyn	15
3 Sexual Innocence and Economic Experience: the Problems of Amelia and Ophelia	37
4 'Godlike benefactors': Patriarchal Patterns in Lady Julia Mandeville , The Vicar of Wakefield and Humphry Clinker	59
5 'Above œconomy': The History of Lady Barton , The Man of Feeling and A Sentimental Journey	91
6 'The first soft system': Commerce, Sensibility and Femininity in Barham Downs and Anna: or Memoirs of a Welch Heiress	117
7 'The mild lustre of modest independence': Economies of Obligation in Novels of the 1790s	154
Conclusion	187
Notes	191
Bibliography	216
Index	224