

CONTENTS

ABBREVIATIONS	xi
INTRODUCTION	xiii
I. THE LIFE AND WRITINGS OF LIBANIUS
1. The Life and Personality of Libanius biography, 1-7; personality, 7-8; views, 8-16	I
2. The Letters of Libanius purposes of letters, 17-18; a literary genre, 18-20; epistolary friendship, 20-1; Christian letters, 21-2; publication, 22-3	17
3. The Orations of Libanius character, 23-5; publication, 25-31; as sources, 31-2; distortions, 32-8; Libanius' political judgement, 39	23
II. THE LIVELIHOOD OF THE PEOPLE OF ANTIOCH
1. The Territory of Antioch	40
2. The Upper Class definition, 41-2; house of Thalassius, 42-3; property of Libanius, 43-8; a class of landowners, 48-9; new fortunes, 49-51; an urban class, 51	41
3. The Shopkeepers include craftsmen, 52; status, 52-3; collatio lustralis, 53-5; location of shops, 55-6; imperial factories, 57-8; abuses, 58-9; lack of influence, 59-61; upper-class interest in shops, 61	52
4. The Workers of the Land Syriac, 61-2; landlord and peasant, 62-4; tied tenants, 65-6; rent, 66-7; independent peasants, 67-70; solidarity, 70; living conditions 70-1; hill villages, 71-2; depression temporary, 73	61
5. Trade and Traders in foodstuffs, 73-4; by landowners, 74-5; Seleucia, 76; Far Eastern trade, 76-8; textiles, wine, and oil, 79-80; the market for olive oil, 80-1; emigrants, 81-2; traders, 82-3	73
6. Payments in Money and Payments in Farm Produce coin, 83-6; inflation, 86-7; money-lending, 87-8; taxes in kind, 88-9; adaeratio, 89-90; advantages of system, 90-1; disadvantages, 92	83

Contents

7. Population and Prosperity	93
estimates, 93-6; population and food supply, 96; growth, 97; poverty, 97-8; building, 98; in inland areas, 99-100
III. THE AUTHORITIES AT ANTIOCH
1. The Council: Theory and Practice	101
Libanius on council, 101-3; curial responsibility, 103-4; weakness, 104-5
2. The Emperor	105
scope of emperor's power, 105-7; embassies and provincial assembly, 107-8; abuse of influence, 109
3. The Comes Orientis and the Consularis Syriae	110
comes and consular, 110-11; duties of governors, 112-14
4. The General	114
social background of officers, 114-15; the magister militum per orientem, 115-16; relations with civil administration, 116-18
IV. THE INTERRELATION OF IMPERIAL GOVERNORS AND CIVIC COUNCIL IN THE GOVERNMENT OF ANTIOCH
1. Security and Justice	119
village government 119-21; insecurity, 121-2; justice, 122-3; the tribes, 123; police, 124-5; limited coercive power, 125-6
2. The Food Supply of the City	126
subsidized food, 126-9; crises of 354-5 and 362-3, 130-1; imperial supervision, 131-2; price control, 132
3. Building	132
public and private 132-5; contrast with Early Empire, 136
4. The Olympic Games and the Syriarchy	136
Olympic Games, 136-40; Syriarchy, 141-2; governors' supervision, 143-4
5. Routine Entertainment	144
supervision, 144; theatricals, 144-6; chariot races, 146-8; baths, 148; volunteers for liturgies, 148-9
6. Financing the Civic Services	149
civic estates, 149-51; first confiscation, 151-2; Julian's restoration, 153; second confiscation, 153-6; economies? 156-7; shrinking importance of liturgies, 157-8; the factions, 158-61

Contents

APPENDIX II. The Dates and Circumstances of Orations XLVIII and XLIX	270
APPENDIX III. Some Fugitive Councillors	277
APPENDIX IV: The Claque	278
SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY	281
ADDENDA	287
INDEX OF GREEK TERMS	289
GENERAL INDEX	291

MAPS

(at end)

The Territory of Antioch

Antioch, Communications and Frontier Defence in Syria