

Contents

Foreword xiii

PART 1 THE APPROACH AND ITS ORIGINS 1

1 Social skills and personal problem solving 3

2 Sources and assumptions 8

SOURCES 8

Education

Psychotherapy

Learning theory

Theory and practice

ASSUMPTIONS 11

Common sense

Self-defined problems

Voluntarism

Variety and choice

Explicitness

Openness

Equality

Optimism and cheerfulness

NOTES AND REFERENCES 16

PART 2 A PROBLEM-SOLVING PROCESS 19

3 Assessment 21

THE AIMS OF ASSESSMENT 21

Making a start

WHAT IS THE PROBLEM? 23

Sentence completion

Brainstorming

Check lists

Card sorts

ANALYSING PROBLEMS 27

The '5 W-H' system

Pattern notes

Ranking

LOOKING AT SELF 31

Self-perception scales

Interviews

Seven-point plan

KNOWING: sentence completion, multiple choice questions 35

FEELING: sentence completion, pattern note titles, questionnaires and inventories 36

Pictures

DOING 39

Observation: structured role-play, goldfish-bowl, video, recording schedules, rating scales, social skills, check list, sentence completion

Experience: Accommodation history form

Surveying marketable skills

Time

Diary forms

'Snakes'

USING ASSESSMENT METHODS 48

Pencil-and-paper methods

Interviews

Group discussion

THE USES OF ASSESSMENT: summary, matrix 54

NOTES AND REFERENCES 56

4	Setting objectives	60
	CHAPTER AIMS	60
	CHARACTERISTICS OF PERSONAL OBJECTIVES	61
	METHODS FOR GENERATING OBJECTIVES	62
	Profiles of problem areas
	Sentence completion
	Check lists of specimen objectives
	Counselling
	Peer interviews
	Wall charts and matrices
	Ladder scales
	Group discussion
	Brainstorming and pattern notes
	THE FINAL STAGES OF SETTING OBJECTIVES: matrix	68
	THE PROCESS OF SETTING OBJECTIVES	69
	NOTES AND REFERENCES	70
5	Learning: methods and procedures	71
	CHAPTER AIMS: three kinds of change in learning	72
	METHODS OF LEARNING	72
	Knowing	72
	1 Direct teaching: lectures, hand-outs
	2 Self-organized learning methods: programmed learning, individualized learning packages
	3 Materials used in vocational guidance
	4 Brainstorming techniques: '5 W-H', pattern notes
	5 Group discussion
	Feeling	81
	1 Counselling methods
	Personal counselling
	Vocational counselling
	Co-counselling
	2 Group discussion methods
	3 Role-play
	4 Groupwork and sensitivity training methods: a simple growth game, confrontation, McFall's Mystical Monitor

x Social skills and personal problem solving

Doing 90

- 1 Social skills training methods: basic social skills exercises (personal space, use of the voice-intonation, mapping touch areas of the body, eye contact), modelling (using the telephone), role-playing successive approximation, critical incidents analysis, whispers, self-presentation of 'best points'
- 2 Exercises in problem solving and related skills
 - Problem-solving systems*
 - Information search*
 - Decision making*: sentencing exercises, identifying assumptions, personal decisions, force field analysis
 - Problem solving*
- 3 Simulations: Tenement

USING LEARNING PROCEDURES IN PRACTICE 108

Knowing

Feeling

Doing

A composite problem area: making a complaint

SUMMARY: matrix 111

NOTES AND REFERENCES 111

6 Evaluation 118

PURPOSES OF EVALUATION 118

CHAPTER AIMS 118

THE PLACE OF EVALUATION IN THE PROGRAMME: What is to be evaluated? 119

EVALUATION METHODS 120

Paper-and-pencil methods

Sentence completion

Written reports, logs, and diaries

Questionnaires

Check lists

Rating scales

Tests

Interviews: general evaluation interview plan

Group discussion

Observation

MONITORING THE PROGRAMME: A basic evaluation form	126
COMPLETING THE CYCLE: A problem-solving cycle	128
SUMMARY: matrix	130
NOTES AND REFERENCES	130

PART 3 PROGRAMMES AND APPLICATIONS 133

7 Programme construction 135

CHAPTER AIMS 136

THE ELEMENTS OF A PROGRAMME 136

- Programme aims
- Stimulus material
- Assessment methods
- Setting objectives
- Learning procedures
- Evaluation

A CURRICULUM MATRIX FOR SOCIAL WORK: some standard methods 139

RESOURCES 139

SOME USES OF VIDEO 141

JOB SEARCH PROGRAMME OUTLINE 143

ALCOHOL PROGRAMME OUTLINE 145

RIGHTS PROGRAMME OUTLINE 147

SESSION PLANS 148

- Using the telephone

BEYOND THE PROGRAMME 151

NOTES AND REFERENCES 151

8 Applications 159

CHAPTER AIMS 160

PREVIOUS WORK WITH THE APPROACH 161

- Feasibility
- Staff performance
- Group members' responses

xii Social skills and personal problem solving

AREAS OF APPLICATION 164

Transitions

Day-to-day work in the field or institution

One-off problems

Staff training

PRACTICAL ISSUES 173

SOME OTHER APPLICATIONS 175

ILLUSTRATIONS 176

Job search for unemployed probationers

Decision making for school-leavers

Family problems

Staff development in a voluntary organization

REFERENCES 179

9 The staff role 180

BASIC SKILLS 180

Interviewing

Group leading

Teaching

Administering tests

Writing programmes

Organizing

ATTITUDES AND VALUES 185

References 187

Addresses 196

Index 199