

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction	1
1 Literature and Fascination	11
Narratives of fascination	11
Of magic, love and envy: a short history of fascination	35
Fascination, myth and medusamorphoses	61
2 The Power of Magic and the Fear of Contamination: Fascination in Early (Modern) Literature	71
Fascination and meta-poiesis: the poet and his m(ed)use	71
The theatre of infection: fascination in Shakespeare's plays	85
3 Facing the Femme Fatale: The Poetics of Seduction and the Fascination with Storytelling	114
The (non-)encounter with Medusa	121
The fascination with representation	128
Tales and torments of narrative attraction	135
4 The Spark of Inspiration: Mesmerism, Electrifying Fiction and Gothic Fascination	147
The fascination with Frankenstein; or, The Modern Prometheus	147
Fascinating gazes, mesmeric energies and luring vampires	166
5 The Anxiety of Influence: Fascination with the Self and the Other	190
Vampiric acts and Medusan powers	190
The colonial stares back	208
6 The Gorgon Gazes Back: Contemporary Fascination	219
The Medusa effect	219
The fascination with terror: 9/11 novels	228
Reading for fascination	238
Conclusion: The Journey Ahead	252
Notes	255
Bibliography	280
Index	309