

Contents

Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction On Going Home	i

PART ONE: RECALLING THE HOMEGIRL

Autoethnography	19
Chapter 1 Behind Beats and Rhymes: Working Class from a Hampton Roads Hip Hop Homeplace	23
Chapter 2 The [News] Wire: My Life Script[ed]	41
Chapter 3 Between Us: A Bio-Poem	53

PART TWO: (RE)MEMBERING THE HOMEGIRL

Textual Experience	61
Chapter 4 From Hip Hop Queen to Hollywood's Mama Morton(s): Latifah as the Sexual Un/desirable	65
Chapter 5 "Single Ladies," Sasha Fierce, and Sexual Scripts in the Black Public Sphere	81

PART THREE: REPRESENTIN' THE HOMEGIRL

Poetic Transcription as Performance Ethnography	103
Chapter 6 Every Day	107
Looking Up, Looking Down: Donna's Diggs Park Place Familial Story	108
Latina's Refrain	111
Taressa: A Rasta Mother's Answer(s) Rap	113
(Re)definitions	120
Conclusion The Fundamentals of a Hip Hop Feminist Approach	125

Notes	129
Bibliography	155
Index	173