

Contents

Editors' Preface	7
Erhard Reckwitz Literary History - A Problem Sketch	11
J.M. Coetzee Gordimer and Turgenev	23
Peter Mtuze Fragments of South African Literary History: Picking up the Pieces	35
Stanley Ridge "Shifting About of Reality": A Literary-Historical Excursion into Three Natal Novels in English (1875-1913)	45
Johan van Wyk Hordes, Institutions and Intertexts: Conceptualising South African Literary History	57
Martina Ghosh-Schellhorn The Fragments of a Totalitarian Vision: Indian 'National Literature' as an Example of Some Relevance to South Africa?	69
Zbigniew Bialas Whose Madagascar? The Case of the Colonised Colon	85
Ampie Coetzee South African Literature and Discursive Formations. Land and the Farm Novel	95
Dorothy Driver Reclaiming Olive Schreiner: A Re-Reading of From Man to Man	111
Liliane Louvel Totality and/or Fragment: Nadine Gordimer's The Conservationist . The Figure in the Mosaic	121
Dieter Welz Radical Otherness or True Dissymmetry? Legal Dualism and South African Literature	135

Mbulelo Mzamane Domestication of a Tradition: Early Trends in South African Literature, 1820-1930	145
Gareth Cornwell The Moral Economy of Race in Early Twentieth-Century South African English Literature	163
Dennis Walder Questions from a White Man Who Listens	195
Michael Green South African Literary History: The Mark Between the 'And' and 'Or'	207