

Contents

Foreword by Carlo Petrini .....	xv
Introduction.....	1
1 The new paradigms .....	9
1.1 The new paradigms of consumption and information.....	9
1.2 The neo-consumer in fashion.....	13
Copenhagen Fashion Summit 2014 .....	16
References and further reading.....	19
2 The new value proposition: from the logic of profit to shared value .....	20
2.1 The 3P relation model: this is where it all started.....	20
2.2 Brief excursus on CSR (1950–90).....	23
2.3 The concept of sustainability adopted by institutions and the development of CSR .....	25
The Dow Jones Sustainability Indexes .....	27
2.4 From shareholder value to shared value .....	27
2.5 Documenting sustainability: sustainability reporting and codes of ethics .....	32
Code of conduct for Monnalisa suppliers .....	34
2.6 CSR in the fashion world and dimensions of responsibility .....	39

2.7	A new model of responsibility in fashion.....	41
2.8	'Food for thought': a comparison of responsibilities in the T&A and food sectors .....	46
	Slow Food and Terra Madre for a good, clean and fair food.....	50
	illycaffè: differentiation and responsibility in the value chain.....	52
	References and further reading.....	56
3	Fashion and the environment.....	59
3.1	The relationship between fashion and the environment....	59
	Advantages and disadvantages of hemp .....	61
	The advantages of vegetable dyeing .....	62
	Vintage, second hand, upcycling .....	63
3.2	From vicious circle to virtuous circle.....	68
3.3	Actions to reduce environmental impact along the value chain.....	70
3.4	Best practice in fashion .....	75
3.5	Towards 'cradle-to-cradle' .....	83
	References and further reading.....	84
4	Fashion and society .....	85
4.1	The relationship between fashion and society .....	85
4.2	The United Nations Protect, Respect and Remedy framework .....	88
	From public scandals to social responsibility: Nike.....	89
4.3	Freedom of association and collective bargaining.....	91
	Levi Strauss &amp; Co.....	91
4.4	Forced labour and child labour .....	93
	Responsible Cotton Network and the fight against forced child labour in Uzbekistan.....	94
4.5	Discrimination at the workplace.....	96
	Dealing with cases of abuse against women: the Timberland experience.....	97
4.6	Work–life balance .....	99
4.7	Corporate philanthropy .....	100

	Timberland ‘Path of Service’ 2012: 20 years of social work .....	101
4.8	Fashion and fair trade .....	102
4.9	Other forms of ethical fashion: ‘made in prison’ and the valorisation of local production expertise.....	103
	Made in Carcere .....	104
4.10	Best practice in fashion .....	104
	References and further reading.....	110
5	Fashion and the media.....	111
5.1	The relationship between fashion and the media.....	111
5.2	Communicating responsibility.....	112
5.3	New languages, content, means and approaches to reinvent the company narrative .....	119
	Trans-media storytelling: online and offline integration and emotional relationship .....	121
	Communicating responsibility: some best practice .....	123
5.4	Developing a responsible communication plan .....	125
5.5	The rules of responsible communication.....	127
	References and further reading.....	130
6	Fashion, art, culture and territory .....	133
6.1	The relationship between fashion and culture .....	133
6.2	Fashion and contemporary art .....	137
	Examples of collaboration between fashion and art .....	142
6.3	Fashion and cinema .....	145
6.4	Managing the relationship between fashion, culture and territory.....	148
	The fashion and cultural resources of the territory: towards the cultural district .....	155
	References and further reading.....	158
7	Fashion, regulations and institutions.....	161
7.1	The evolution of social and environmental problems from the end of the Multi Fibre Arrangement to the recent crisis .....	161
7.2	Globalisation and rights.....	166

7.3	Codes of conduct and certification .....	171
	References and further reading.....	185
8	Brunello Cucinelli: an ethical and humanistic company.....	187
8.1	Origins .....	188
8.2	The development of products and international markets.....	189
8.3	The village of Solomeo and the relationship with the territory .....	191
8.4	Humanistic philosophy and the concept of labour.....	194
8.5	The organisational model and employee relations .....	197
	Code of ethics of Brunello Cucinelli SpA .....	199
8.6	The communication strategy.....	202
8.7	The stock market listing.....	204
	References and further reading.....	208
9	Ethics and fashion: towards a responsible value chain .....	209
9.1	The relationship between ethics and the responsible company .....	209
9.2	The specificity of the ethical dimension in the fashion sector .....	211
9.3	The behaviour of the responsible fashion company.....	212
9.4	The future of fashion: integrating ethics and aesthetics in the value chain.....	215
	References and further reading.....	217
	Multimedia resources.....	219
	About the authors.....	222