

Contents

Preface	xi
Introduction: Insider Writers/Outsider Theory	xv
1 First Wave and Second Wave African Feminism: Butler and the Question of Gender	1
2 The Other (Side of the) Mirror	23
3 Jewish Abjection, African Abjection, and The Subject Presumed to Know: Kristeva and Beyala's Tu t'appelleras Tanga	43
4 Standing Like a Tower: Plagiarism, Castration, and the Phallus in Le Petit Prince de Belleville	97
5 Less Than One and Double: Irigaray/Bhabha, Nervous Conditions/Assèze l'Africaine	157
6 Division, Disunity, Disturbance, and Difference: Safi Faye's Mossane and the Challenge of Postmodern Feminism	247
7 City of Mud and Diamonds, City of Dis: Tanella Boni, Véronique Tadjo—A Feminism of the Cities	277

Conclusion: Rebuilding Dis: Words of a Second Wave	331
Bibliography	335
Index	343