

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
Patricia Anne Simpson and Helga Druxes
I: Extremisms and the Internet	19
1 Swastikas in Cyberspace: How Hate Went Online	21
Chip Berlet and Carol Mason
2 The Lone Wolf Comes From Somewhere, Too	37
Øyvind Strømme and Kjetil Stormark
3 Mobilizing on the Fringe: Domestic Extremists and Antisocial Networking	55
Kyle Christensen, Arian Spahiu, Bret Wilson, and Robert D. Duval
4 Hijacking Authority: Academic Neo-Aryanism and Internet Expertise	83
Alexandar Mihailovic
II: Far-Right Politics and Internet Identities	103
5 Identity, Tradition, Sovereignty: The Transnational Linkages of Radical Nationalist Political Parties in the European Union	105
Glen M. E. Duerr
6 Manipulating the Media: The German New Right's Virtual and Violent Identities	123
Helga Druxes

7	The Imitated Public Sphere: The Case of Hungary's Far Right Domonkos Sik	141
8	Right-Wing Campaign Strategies in Sweden Lara Mazurski	161
9	The "Identitarian Movement": What Kind of Identity? Is it Really a Movement? Fabian Virchow	177
III: Homophobia, Race, and Radicalism		191
10	Singing for Race and Nation: Fascism and Racism in Greek Youth Music Alexandra Koronaïou, Evangelos Lagos, and Alexandros Sakellariou	193
11	"The Order of the Vanquished Dragon": The Performance of Archaistic Homophobia by the Union of Orthodox Banner Bearers in Putin's Russia Alexandar Mihailovic	215
12	Pure Hate: The Political Aesthetic of Prussian Blue Patricia Anne Simpson	229
13	The New "Great White Hope?": White Nationalist Discourses of Race, Color, and Country in the Career of Mexican Boxer Saúl "Canelo" Álvarez Justin D. García	249
14	The Roots of East German Xenophobia Freya Klier	269
	Index	279
	About the Contributors	287