

Contents

Preface	ix
Part 1: Narrative Explanation
1/The Fortunes of Telling	3
2/Causation and the American Civil War	29
3/The Unfinished Arch: William James and the Idea of History	44
Part 2: The Political Novel and the Idea of History
4/ Uncle Tom's Cabin and the Portent of Millennium	59
5/Radical Religion and the American Political Novel	70
6/Politics and the American Literary Imagination	92
Part 3: The Veracious and the Voracious Imaginations
7/The Rediscovery of the Documentary	119
8/Analogical History: The Crucible	139
9/Hazards of the Border Country: Some Contemporary Historical Novels	157
10/The Antihistorical Novel	183
Part 4: Psychological Biography
11/William James and the Twice-Born Sick Soul	199

viii

12/Ego Psychology and the Historian	223
13/Personality and Cultural History in the Novel	245
14/Clio, Psyche, and the Literary Artist	264
Index	291