

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xvii
Introduction
A Mirror in the Roadway	1
 AMERICAN REALISM: The Sense of Time and Place
The City as Text: New York and the American Writer	17
The Second City (Chicago Writers)	36
Upton Sinclair and the Urban Jungle	41
A Radical Comedian (Sinclair Lewis)	51
The Magic of Contradictions: Willa Cather's Lost Lady	60
 A DIFFERENT WORLD: From Realism to Modernism
The Authority of Failure (F. Scott Fitzgerald)	77
Edmund Wilson: Three Phases	89
A Glint of Malice (Mary McCarthy)	96
Silence, Exile, Cunning	104
The Modern Writer as Exile	104
An Outsider in His Own Life (Samuel Beckett)	115
Kafka in Love	119
Hope against Hope: Orwell and the Future	126
Magical Realism	137
The Pornography of Power (Gabriel García Márquez)	137
A Fishy Tale (Günter Grass)	140
Talking Dogs and Pioneers (S. Y. Agnon)	144
 POSTWAR FICTION IN CONTEXT: Genealogies
Sea Change: Céline in America	153
The Complex Fate of the Jewish American Writer	168

The Face in the Mirror: The Eclipse of Distance in Contemporary Fiction	184
Ordinary People: Carver, Ford, and Blue-Collar Realism	199
Textures of Memory	209
Late Bellow: Thinking About the Dead	209
Saints and Sinners: William Kennedy's Albany Cycle	214

READING AND HISTORY

Damaged Literacy: The Decay of Reading	223
Finding the Right Words (Irving Howe)	234
The Social Uses of Fiction (Martha Nussbaum)	243
The Limits of Historicism: Literary Theory and Historical Understanding	248
Sources	259
Index	271