

CONTENTS

CHAP.		PAGE
	PREFACE	5
	Importance of Sulla—The key to Sulla lost—"Recapitulation" in social development—Modernity of Sulla—Dictatorship—The parallel only approximate—Sources—The unknown is to be interpreted by the known.
I	SULLA	19
	State of Europe—Britain—The Frisians—The Baltic—Germany—Gaul—The small political unit—Limitation of energy—Rome the real centre of interest—Rome in Sulla's day—An age of transition—Ancestry of Sulla—Sulla's person—Eccentricity of his appearance—His early days—His family poor—The lady Nicopolis—His stepmother—His Bohemian tastes—The drama—Complexity of his character—His passivity—His conventionality—Limits of his conventionality—His caution—He was an opportunist on principle—The theory of "Fortune."
II	THE ANTECEDENTS OF SULLA'S WORLD	40
	"Mediterranean" civilisation—The city state—Evolution of the tribe—Larger political units the ideal—The state rationalised—The abolition of kingship—Political control made responsible—Development of Rome—Law brought under the control of the state—The aristocracy controlled by law—Abolition of privilege—The state strengthened by the changes—The war of Hannibal—The Roman state proof against force—Ruin of the peasantry—The problem of action—Tiberius Gracchus—Economic action to be controlled by the state—Impatience of Tiberius—He is murdered—Gaius Gracchus—The bankers support Gaius—The state to be controlled by economic forces—The financiers privileged—Projected extension of the Roman franchise—Gaius a revolutionary—Drusus the elder—The electors detached from Gaius—Force employed—The movement suppressed—Consequences of the suppression.
III	SULLA'S WORLD	65
	Sulla act. 17—The prestige of law damaged—Importance of Rome—Objections to the Gracchan policy—Importance of the aristocratic tradition—Difference between the oligarchy and the aristocracy—The aristocracy and wealth—Divorce of political and economic power—The roots of Roman rule—The Romans possessed the gift of association—The aristocracy originated it—Decay of aristocracy—Educative effect of aristocracy—The expansion of Rome a consistent process—Difficulties consequent—Necessity of unity in the control—The bankers and merchants—Parallel with the nineteenth century—Insecurity of the state—The problem of popular rights—Power of the economic control—Economic effects of slavery—The European character—Variability of the European type—Disqualifications of the European as a master—Political control necessary—The aristocratic policy the only practicable one—Sulla's relation to these theories—His conduct explained by them.

IV THE RISE OF SULLA TO FORTUNE 86

Character of Gaius Marius—Marius tribune, 119 B.C.—Marius praetor, 115 B.C.—Propraetor in Spain, 114 B.C.—He marries into the family of Caesar—The trouble in Africa—Jugurtha—Revival of the Populares—The African war—Trouble in the North—Competence of the oligarchy in question—Marius in Africa, 108 B.C.—Marius Consul I, 107 B.C.—The army reforms of Marius—Sulla quaestor aet. 31—Marius commander in chief in Africa, 106 B.C.—Difficulties of the war—Sulla arrives in Africa—The problem of King Bocchus—Sulla sent to Bocchus—Sulla receives the ambassadors—The embassy in Rome—Sulla's second mission to Bocchus—Danger on the road—Sulla reaches Bocchus—The official conference—The secret conference—Sulla successful—Bocchus and Jugurtha—Capture of Jugurtha, 105 B.C.

V THE TRIUMPH OF MARIUS 113

Fresh danger—The Cimbri and Teutones—Party position in Rome—Caepio in Gaul—Defeat at Arausio—Panic in Italy—Demand for Marius—The crime of Caepio—Marius Consul II, 104 B.C.—His triumph—Sulla legate under Marius—The new army—Marius Consul III, 103 B.C.—Doubts of Marius—Marius Consul IV, 102 B.C.—Sulla takes work under Catulus—Movements of the Cimbri and Teutones—Battle of Aquae Sextiae—Marius Consul V, 101 B.C.—Catulus in retreat—The Cimbri—Battle of Vercellae—Sulla's version of the battle—Dispute on the field.

VI THE POLITICAL STRUGGLE 133

Problems of the peace—Electoral campaign, 101 B.C.—Sulla's political position—Criticisms of Marius—Sulla's view of Marius—Catulus—Relation of Catulus and Sulla—Metellus Numidicus—Marius as a politician

—Marius Consul VI, 100 B.C.—The cabal against Marius—Saturninus and the Senate—Difficulties of Marius—"The Catonic pose"—The equites go over—Elections for 99 B.C.—Triumph of the oligarchy—The Italians—Marius travels in Asia—The Italians and the franchise—Scaevola: lex Licinia Mucia—The equestrian courts again—Hesitation of the oligarchy—The "group"—Scaevola's administration in Asia—Rutilius impeached—Sulla praetor, 93 B.C., aet. 45—Rutilius condemned—Exiled—Condition of Asia—Character of Mithradates—Asiatic despotism—Policy of Sulla—Results—The gold plaque—Impeachment dropped—Drusus the younger—The programme of Drusus—Difficulty of his policy—His success—His failure—His murder—Revolt of the Italians.

VII THE MILITARY STRUGGLE IN ITALY 163

The Social War, 90 B.C.—The opposing forces—Change in character of Rome—The Italians apprehend the true nature of the war—The Varian tribunal—Sulla in Campania—Roman reverses—Marius in central Italy—Success of Marius—Dissensions in Rome—Problem of the franchise—Change of opinion—Italians weakened by the concessions made to them—Changes in command, 89 B.C.—Sulla commands in Campania—The reversion of the Asiatic command—Second year of the war—Sulla and his army—Sulla's raid into Samnium—His success—The war a military defeat but a moral victory for the Italians—Consequences of the war—News of Mithradates—The massacres in Asia—Italy seriously damaged by the Social War—Alarm of the equites—Sulpicius Rufus—Sulla Consul I, 88 B.C., aet. 50—"Fortune"—His marriage to Caecilia Metella—Lampoons against Sulla—Sulla's action against Sulpicius—Sulla is assaulted and intimidated—The eastern command offered to Marius—Sulla prepares to enforce his claims—Murder of the tribunes—Sulla's march on Rome—Entry into the city—Escape of Marius—Death of Sulpicius—Audacity of Sulla's act—Its justification—His intentions—His measures of pacification—He leaves for the east.

VIII SULLA IN GREECE 189

Situation in Greece—Sulla's advance—Lucullus—the siege of Athens—Difficulties of supply—Requisition of the treasures of Delphi—The siege drags—Ill news from Rome—Athens taken by assault—The army of relief—The journey of Lucullus—Reaction against Mithradates—Sulla in Boeotia—Arrival of the Pontic army—Sulla occupies the fords—The entrenched position—Battle of Chaeronea—The Pontic left wing broken—Rout of the Pontic army.

CHAP.		PAGE
IX	THE VENGEANCE OF MARIUS AND THE RETENTION OF ASIA	207
	Italy unsettled—The equites dissatisfied—Cinna acts for them—Blundering of Octavius—Civil war—Arrival of Marius—He takes Ostia—The Senate surrenders to Cinna—Mental condition of Marius—The Marian proscription—Impossibility of controlling him—Marius Consul VII, 86 B.C.—Death of Marius—The Populares supreme—Their intellectual impotence—The refugees flee to Sulla—Flaccus sent to supersede Sulla—Sulla and Flaccus—They part—Sulla at Orchomenos—The new Pontic army—Sulla's engineering—Archelaus attacks the ditches—Sulla's complete success—Flight and death of Flaccus—The war goes against Mithradates—Negotiations—Sulla drafts terms—Attempt to modify the terms—Sulla's interview with Mithradates—The terms ratified—The army disappointed—Fimbria—The Fimbrian army melts—Attempt to assassinate Sulla—Suicide of Fimbria—Settlement of Asia—Sulla's financial diplomacy—Legal position of Sulla—He writes to the Senate—Cinna murdered.
X	SULLA COMES HOME	237
	83 B.C., Sulla, aet. 55—Sulla's rest in Greece—Difficulties of invading Italy—His undertakings—He lands in Italy—The March to Campania—Defeat of Norbanus—Accessions to Sulla—Crassus—Pompeius—Sulla meets Pompeius—Negotiations with Lucius Scipio—Sulla alleges an agreement with the Consul—82 B.C. Sulla, aet. 56—Sulla's plans—Advance of Metellus Pius—Sulla's advance—The troops worn out—Battle of Sacriportus—Praeneste invested—Murder of Scaevola—Sulla's advance on Carbo—The arrival of the Samnites—Carbo flees—Samnites resolve to destroy Rome—They are delayed by a sally—Battle of the Colline Gate—Sulla's troops broken—Panic—Crassus successful—End of the battle of the Colline Gate.
XI	THE DICTATORSHIP OF SULLA	254
	State of Rome—Sulla's triumph—"Sulla Felix"—His policy—The problem of restoration—The logic of events—Massacre of the prisoners—Praeneste taken—Fate of other towns—The Dictatorship—Its terms—Samnium devastated—Financial difficulties—The "Capitl levy"—Principle of the Sullan proscription—Doubts of his friends—The lists—Views of the proscription—Scandals—Sulla unable to prevent abuses—The auctions—Success of the proscription—Sulla's creative measures—Poverty of material for a new aristocracy—Sulla's practical reforms—The franchise confirmed to the Italians—Local government—The franchise partly ineffective—Land colonisation—The

CONTENTS

15

CHAP.		PAGE
	equites —Legal reforms—The Senate—Civil and military power separated—Sulla's aim the repression of monarchy—Reasons against monarchy—Sulla Consul II, 80 B.C., aet. 58—Sulla ignoring the real truth—His inconsistency.
XII	THE DEATH OF SULLA	281
	Pompeius in Sicily—His tolerance—Sulla disappointed in him—Pompeius recalled—Pompeius and the opposition—Breach between him and Sulla—The turn of the tide—Sulla contemplates failure—The Opimian wine—Death of Metella—Valeria Messalla—Ofella—The parable of the husbandman—Lepidus—Sulla's verdict on Pompeius—Sulla resigns—He retires—Attacked by sickness—His commentaries—He bursts a blood-vessel—His death, 78 B.C., aet. 60—Pompeius protects the dead man—The funeral.
XIII	THE DEATH OF SULLA'S WORLD	295
	Reaction—Sulla's success temporary—The oligarchy—Mithradates—Sertorius in Spain—Spartacus—Fall of Sertorius—Pompeius burns the correspondence of Sertorius—Weakness of the Populares —Rise of Crassus—Consulship of Pompeius and Crassus—Sulla's constitution cancelled—Lucullus in Asia—Caesar—The memory of Marius revived—Lex Gabinia, 67 B.C.—Lex Manilia, 66 B.C.—Caesar financed by the bankers—The trophies of Marius restored—Dissensions among the Populares —Conspiracy of Catilina—Caesar in sole control of the Populares —The first Triumvirate, 60 B.C.—Caesar goes to Gaul—The Triumvirate renewed, 56 B.C.—Results of the murder of Caesar—The empire—Review of Sulla's work—Realism of Caesar—The empire a new type of monarchy—Aristocracy cannot be deliberately created—The oligarchy neglected ability—The army becomes a guild—Political power controls all others—The change beneficial to the economic power—The empire ended the political evolution of Rome—Defects of Caesar's policy—Christianity necessary as a counterbalance—Christianity a "political" organisation—Dualism of allegiance unsatisfactory—Faults of Sulla—Sulla's work a stage in our own evolution.	