

Contents

Series Foreword by Henry Warner Bowden	ix
Introduction	xi

Part I ORIGINS AND DEVELOPMENT, 1920–1935

1.	The 1920s: A Time of Troubles	3
2.	Francis X. Talbot and the Catholic Literary “Emergence”	17
3.	A Revival Is Organized: Daniel A. Lord and the Sodality Literary Campaign	31
4.	The Revival as Reaction, I: Catholics against Modernity	51
5.	The Revival as Reaction, II: Newman, Chesterton, and Babbitt, Catholic Revivalists	63
6.	The Search for the Great American Catholic Novel, I: Catholic Fiction to 1935	85

Part II TRANSFORMATION, 1935–1955

7.	The Transformation of the Catholic Literary Revival in the American Catholic College During the 1930s and 1940s	99
----	---	----

- | | | |
|----|--|-----|
| 8. | Frank O'Malley: Thinker, Critic, Revivalist | 123 |
| 9. | "Yes, We Have No Bernanos." The Search for the Great American Catholic Novel, II:
Catholic Fiction During the Era of
Transformation | 143 |

PART III DISSOLUTION, THE 1950s AND AFTER

- | | | |
|-----|---|-----|
| 10. | "Ought There to Be a Catholic Criticism?" The
1950s and the End of the Revival | 163 |
| | Endnotes | 171 |
| | Bibliography | 205 |
| | Index | 211 |