

INDEX

- Aelius Lampridius, 26
Aelius Spartianus, 26
Alamanni defeated by Aurelius, 8
Albingsauni, Proculus a member of the tribe of the, 117
Alexander Severus, 5
Alma, Mt., planted with vines, 143
Anonymus post Dionem, on the death of Probus, 126; Carus's invasion of Persia, 128
Aper conceals death of Numerianus, 131
Augustan History, 25; a forgery(?), 26; edited by one man (?) 27, 32; results of investigations of scholars, 47 seqq.; written A.D. 407(?), 50; its sources, 54
Aurelian chosen emperor, 7; surrenders Dacia, 8; defeats Alamanni, 8; assassinated at Caenofrurium, 9; his murderer slain, 73, 95
Aurelius Victor, 19, 67; resemblances between him and Vopiscus, 69
Authorities, comparison of, 59 seq.
Bastarnae settled on this side of the Danube, settlement successful, 140
Bernhardy on the Augustan History, 26 n., 27
Blemyes attacked by Probus's generals, 109; date, 156; subjugation leads to improved corn supply, 141; subjugation not permanent, 109; their position at Coptos and Ptolemais, 109; triumphed over, 122
Boehm, the career of Probus, 91
Bononus, Gallic tyrant, 116; resident in Spain, 119; declares himself emperor, 120; his fate, 120
Brünner on the Augustan History, 34; re-election of Probus, 149
Caesian hill, battle of, 9
Caenofrurium, Aurelian slain at, 9
Carinus, his rule, 132; his death, 132
Carus, not privy to Probus's death, 126; his early career, 128; crushes the Sarmatians, 128; enters the Persian territory, 129; regains Mesopotamia, 129; his death, 131
Chronicles, evidence of, 21
Chronicon Imperiale, 37
Chronology of reign, 149 seqq.
Claudius, 6, 7
Coins, evidence of, re Probus, 17, 153
Corpus Inscriptionum Latinarum, 16, 129, 130
Czwalina on the Augustan History, 39
De Sanctis on the Augustan History, 41
Dessau on the Augustan History, 28, 30
Diocletian served under Probus, 146; overcomes Carinus, 132; inaugurates a new era, 132; two biographies dedicated to him, 48
Enmann on the Augustan History, 36, 71
Eunapius's authority for Zosimus, 20
Eutropius, 19, 68; resemblances between him and Vopiscus, 69; account of reign, 59 seqq.
Florian claims to be emperor, 88; besieged by Probus at Tarsus, 93; slain by his troops, 94
Gallienus, 6
Gaul, campaign in, 100; chronology of, 156

- Gautunni, settlement within the empire, 112; their conduct, 112
 Gippedi leave their settlements, 112
 Giri on the Augustan History, 42
 Gordianus, 11
- Heer on the Augustan History, 44
 Hereditary principle, Roman aversion to, 87
 Hilaria, 56 and note
 History, different conceptions of, 23
 Hunila, 120
- Igillus, commander of the Logiones captured, 103
 Illyricum pacified by Probus, 104
 Inscriptions referring to Probus, 16;
 Carus, 129; Carinus, 129; Numerianus, 130
 Isaurians subdued by Probus, 106;
 date, 156
Ius tertiæ relationis conferred on Probus, 98
- John of Antioch, 21
- Lécrivain on the Augustan History, 35
 Leo on the Augustan History, 43
 Lépaulle, date of Probus's triumph, 124; Probus's great organizing abilities, 137; on the value of the evidence of coins in this reign, 153; his chronology for the reign, 154
Libri lintei, 75
Libri elephantini, 75
 Logiones, Probus's war with, 102;
 sent to Britain, 103
 Lugdunum disloyal to Probus, 118
- Manlius Statianus, senator, moves that Probus should receive the imperial power, 97
 Margus, battle of, 132
 Marius Maximus mythistoricus, 83; used by writers of first part of the Augustan History, 43
 Marmaridæ overcome by Probus, 90
 Maximus, kinsman of Tacitus, his elevation causes Tacitus's assassination (Zosimus, etc.), 86
 Mommsen on the Augustan History, 29
- Numerianus, son of Carus, his death, 131; referred to in Calphurnius (Nemesianus), 131
- Odaenathus, 6
 Onesimus, source of Vopiscus's life of Probus, 75, 81
 Orosius, 20, 71
- Palfurius (Lydius ? Zosimus) Isaurian leader, 106; his death, 108
 Peter on the Augustan History, 32
 Postumus, 6
 Probus, authorities for reign, 16;
 his early career, 89; in Egypt, 90;
 chosen emperor by the Eastern legions, 92; marches against Florian, 93; punishes assassins of Aurelian and Tacitus, 95;
 recognized by the Senate, 96;
 drives barbarians out of Gaul, 100; Zosimus's different account, 101; proceeds to Illyricum, 104;
 campaigns against the Isaurians, 106; his designs against the Persians, 108; checks the Blemyes, 109; his settlement of the barbarians within the empire, 112, 140; temporarily loses Spain, Gaul, Britain, 121; celebrates a triumph, 122; its date, A.D. 281-2 (?), Lépaulle, 124; prepares an expedition against the Persians, 124; slain at Sirmium, 125;
 treatment of troops, 125, 138;
 Vopiscus's estimate of, how far justified, 136; hopes of disarmament, 139; his extension of the culture of the vine, 142; attitude towards Senate, 143; treatment of provinces, 144; reforms coinage, 145
 Proculus, Gallic tyrant, 116; date of revolt, 157
- Rühl on the Augustan History, 39
- Sampso, wife of Proculus, 117
 Sarmatians subdued by Probus, 106
 Sturninus, his early career, 114;
 saluted as Augustus at Alexandria, 115; put to death by his own troops, 116; date of revolt, 157
 Schulz on the Augustan History, 44

- Seeck on the Augustan History, 31, 39
- Senate is pleased at Aurelian, 8; refuses to appoint an emperor, 10; at length acclaims Tacitus, 12; its motives, 13, 14; receives greater privileges from Probus, 97, 143
- Severus, reign marks an epoch, 5
- Sirmium, birthplace of Probus, 89; scene of Probus's death, 125
- Suetonius, his method of writing biography, 25; founder of a school, 25
- Suetonius Optatianus, possible authority for Vopiscus's life of Tacitus, 75
- Tacitus chosen as emperor by the Senate, 12; measures of his reign, 84; overcomes barbarian invaders, 85; dies at Tyana, 86
- Tetricus, 8
- Tropea on the Augustan History, 42
- Turdulus Gallicanus, diary of, 76
- Valerian, 6
- Vararam II sends an embassy to Probus, 110
- Verona, Probus connected with, 49
- Victorinus ends the rebellion in Britain for Probus, 122
- Vine, cultivation of, permitted by Probus, 142
- Vopiscus, indications of date, 52 53; urged by Tiberianus to write, 55; his methods, 57; noticeable points in his narrative, 66; causes of his divergences, 67; senatorial bias, 77; his references to authorities, 80; his grandfather, 81; his use of documents, 82; account of Gallic campaign, 100; account of campaign in Isauria, 106; position of tyrants as regards time in his account, 113; his account of Proculus, 117; his worth as an historian, 135
- Zenobia triumphed over, 6, 9
- Zonarus, 21; follows Zosimus, 73; discrepancies, 73; account of Tacitus's death, 86; account of Probus's death, 126
- Zosimus, 20; follows an authority different from that of Vopiscus, 71; full account of Isaurian campaign, 72; other discrepancies, 72, 86; account of Tacitus's death, 86; account of the Gallic campaign, 101; puts the rebellion of Saturninus early, 113; our best authority, 133