

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Publication Acknowledgments	ix
Chapter 1 Dreams and Directions: American Myths of Place	1
SECTION I -- NEW ENGLAND: THOREAU, HAWTHORNE, ADAMS
Chapter 2 Thoreau: Walking Toward England	27
Chapter 3 Hawthorne's Dream in the Forest	39
Chapter 4 Hawthorne's Parricidal Vision of the American Revolution: "My Kinsman, Major Molineux"	55
Chapter 5 Henry Adams and the American Dream	63
SECTION II -- THE MIDWEST AND THE WESTWARD MOVEMENT: FREDERICK JACKSON TURNER, FULTON COUNTY SETTLERS
Chapter 6 The Turner Thesis, the Historic Westerner, and the Mythic West: Suggestions for a New Historiography of the Westward Movement	79
Chapter 7 The Westering Experience in Fulton County, Indiana: A Historical Study in Midwestern American Culture and the American Character	87
SECTION III -- THE FAR WEST: STEPHEN CRANE
Chapter 8 Stephen Crane and the Western Myth	103
Chapter 9 Remarks on the Western Stance of Stephen Crane	119
Chapter 10 Stephen Crane's "Code" and Its Western Connections	139

SECTION IV -- THE SOUTH: WILLIAM FAULKNER

Chapter 11 The Adamic Hero and the Southern Myth: Faulkner's Isaac McCaslin and Quentin Compson	153
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

SECTION V -- THE LOSS OF PLACE: AMERICAN FICTIONISTS, AMERICAN OBSERVERS IN ENGLAND

Chapter 12 The American Dream and the Romance Tradition in American Fiction: A Literary Study of Society and of Success in America	171
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

Chapter 13 American Observers in England, 1820-1920: A Cross-National Perspective on American Culture and the American Character	189
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

Index	205
--------------	-----