

Contents

|                     |  |     |
|---------------------|--|-----|
| INTRODUCTION | On Literary Records and Discursive Possibilities   | 3   |
| ONE          | Re-Membering Blackness After Reconstruction:Race, Rape, and Political Desirein the Work of Thomas Dixon, Jr.             | 19  |
| TWO          | Mark Twain, Charles Chesnutt, and the Politicsof Literary Anti-Racism  | 48  |
| THREE        | Black Women and White Terrorism:Ida B. Wells, David Bryant Fulton, Pauline E. Hopkins,and the Politics of Representation | 77  |
| FOUR         | Rethinking White Female Silences:Kate Chopin's Local Color Fictionand the Politics of White Supremacy                    | 108 |
| AFTERWORD    | Cultural Memories and Critical Inventions  | 136 |
|                     | Notes  | 149 |
|                     | Bibliography   | 177 |
|                     | Index  | 190 |