

Contents

Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Permissions	xiii
Introduction	1
PART ONE The Matrix of Modernism
1 Fenton Johnson: The High Cost of Militance	11
2 William Stanley Braithwaite and Harriet Monroe: The Battle for New Poetry	45
PART TWO Too Close to Turn Around
3 Margaret Walker and the Contest to Define America	77
4 Literary Criticism and the Color Line: Melvin B. Tolson's Eloquent Accommodations	94
5 Roots of the Black Arts Movement: New York in the 1960s	118
6 Amiri Baraka: Gathering the Spirits	145
PART THREE Songs for the People
7 A Change Is Gonna Come: Black Voices of Louisiana	165
8 Neon Griot: The Functional Role of Poetry Readings	189
9 At the Edge of the Twenty-first Century	219
Bibliography	237
Index	261