

Content

Introduction	7
I. Magical Realism - An Overview	13
II. Ron Arias' The Road to Tamazunchale	23
1. Fausto's Magico-Realist Journey: A Creative Approach to Death .	24
1.1. Fausto's Contemplation of Death: His Death-in-Life Existence . .	25
1.2. Fausto's Creation of Death: His Life-in-Death Existence	27
1.2.1. Fausto's Journey to Peru	27
1.2.2. Fausto's Journey in Los Angeles	30
1.2.3. David, the Wetback: The Development of an Absurd Premise to its Logical End	37
1.2.4. Fausto, the Wetback Guide	40
1.3. Fausto's 'Real' Death: A Chicano Fiesta	51
1.4. Fausto's Magico-Realist Rebirth: His Life-after-Death	52
III. Orlando Romero's Nambé-Year One	59
1. The Magico-Realist World View: A Pastoral Vision Based Upon Mythic Memory	62
1.1. The Relationship between Man and Nature	63
1.2. The Concept of Time	68
1.3. The Role of the Ancianos: The Tradition of Storytelling	71
1.3.1. The Story of the Gypsy: Mateo's Split Identity	72
1.3.2. The Story of the Strange Billy Goat	79
1.3.3. Doña Sebastiana: The Mythomagical Perception of Death	82
1.3.4. The Story of "La Bartola or La Llorona"	85
1.3.5. The Story of "Un Bandido": The Interplay of Social and Magical Realism	86
1.4. The Mythic Vision of the Sanctity, the Unity and the Wholeness of all Life	90
IV. Miguel Méndez' The Dream of Santa María de las Piedras	93
1. The Old Men's Oral Reminiscences: Magico-Realist Fragments of the Town's History	94
1.1. The Natural Environment of the Town: A Realistic Setting with Magical Hues	94

1.2.	Oral versus Written History	98
1.3.	The Magico-Realist Tales about the History of the Town	100
1.3.1.	Santa María de las Piedras and the Mexican Revolution	101
1.3.2.	Santa María de las Piedras and the Gold Rush	108
1.4.	Santa María de las Piedras: An Epitome of the Americas	112
2.	Timoteo's Magico-Realist Journey: The Interplay of Social and Magical Realism	114
2.1.	Timoteo Noragua: A Peculiar Member of a Rare Family	114
2.2.	Timoteo's Magico-Realist Journey	115
Conclusion		129
Bibliography		139