

COVENANTAL THEOLOGY

THE EUCHARISTIC ORDER OF HISTORY

VOLUME ONE

Donald J. Keefe, S.J.

University Press of America

Lanham, New York, London

Table of Contents

Volume One: Method and System in Theology

Preface	xv
Introduction: Metaphysics as the Theology of History	1
A. The anatomy of servitude	1
B. The liberation of theology	9
1. The servile alternative	13
2. Worship and freedom in history	15
3. The Eucharistic ground of freedom	16
C. Conversion from cosmology to Covenant	18
1. The cost of cosmology	37
a) Marriage	39
b) Penance and Reconciliation	42
c) Orders	60
d) Eucharist	68
e) Magisterium	70
D. The theological recovery of historical reality	77
Notes, Introduction	79
I. Nature, Grace, and the New Covenant	171
A. The free a priori of theology: the New Covenant	171
B. Theological method	190
1. The function of method in theology	190
2. The emergence of method in theology	195
3. The mistaken mixing of methods	199
4. The methodological rejection of metaphysics	202
5. The Cartesian method becomes modernity	204
6. The theological recovery of metaphysics	206
a) The graced analogy of being	208
C. The recovery of systematic theology: a return to method	211
1. The method of cosmological metaphysics	213
a) The intuitive a priori: Pythagoras to Plato	214
(1) As abstract: Pythagoras and Parmenides	214
(2) As concrete: Heraclitus	217
(3) As anamnesis: Plato	221
b) The discursive a priori: Aristotle	228
2. From cosmos to history	236
a) The Augustinian conversion of Platonism	237
(1) The Augustinian a priori: illumination	248
b) The Thomist conversion of Aristotelianism	255
(1) The Thomist a priori: free analytic intelligibility	257
(2) Illumination and the Thomist analytic a priori	259
Notes, Chapter I	264

II. The Covenant and the Fall	307
A. Introduction	307
B. The Good Creation: the rejection of pessimism	309
C. Covenant versus cosmos: the doctrine of original sin	313
1. Metaphysics and the sin of Adam	319
2. The covenantal metaphysics of Trinitarian reality	332
a) Conversion to the covenantal gratuity of being	338
b) The primordial covenantal immanence of the Son	341
c) The historicity of the first Adam and the first Eve	350
(1) The authority of the first Adam	363
(2) The authority of the first Eve	373
3. The identity of the second Eve	377
a) A metaphysical digression	383
b) Recapitulation and sacramental resolution	389
Notes, Chapter II	393
III. The Metaphysics of the Fall	461
A. The Thomist problematic	461
1. The covenantal character of historical intelligibility	461
2. The historicity of fallen substance	466
3. The image of God in Thomist theology	469
B. The Augustinian problematic	476
1. The image of God in Augustinian theology	482
C. Solidarity in the fallen creation	488
1. Solidarity in sarx	499
a) The unity of sarx : mia sarx	508
D. Résumé and prospectus	518
Notes, Chapter III	522

Volume Two: The Metaphysics of the Covenant

IV. Preliminary Considerations: A Review	1
A. The marital symbol: the ground of metaphysics	1
1. Cosmological dualism and the marital symbol	9
2. Substance as theological and covenantal	11
3. The theological analogy of covenantal being	18
a) The prime analogate: the New Covenant	18
b) The secondary analogates: the imaging of God	23
4. The liturgical a priori of theology	25
Notes, Chapter IV	31
V. The Thomist Covenantal Theology	49
A. The Eucharistic a priori of Thomist metaphysics	49
B. The transubstantiation doctrine of St. Thomas	54
1. The Eucharistic theology of covenantal Thomism	62
a) The act-potency relations of covenantal being	75

(1) Esse and essence	90
(a) The analytic meaning of Esse	93
(b) The analytic meaning of essence	94
(2) Form and matter	107
(a) The analytic meaning of form	109
(b) The analytic meaning of matter	110
(3) Substance and accident	112
(a) The analytic meaning of substance	112
(b) The analytic meaning of accident	115
Notes, Chapter V	120
VI. The Augustinian Covenantal Theology	143
A. The Eucharistic a priori of Augustinian metaphysics	143
1. The Augustinian Eucharistic theology	153
a) Carolingian and medieval Eucharistic theology	177
(1) The ninth century debate	185
(2) The eleventh century controversy	195
(3) A return to Augustine	220
B. Augustinian Eucharistic hylemorphism	234
1. The dialectical transcendental relation	238
a) Form, matter, substance	260
(1) The dialectical meaning of Form	263
(2) The dialectical meaning of matter	273
(3) The dialectical meaning of substance	278
2. The dialectics of understanding	284
a) The phenomenology of illumined consciousness	285
(1) Memoria	297
(2) Intellectus	300
(3) Amor	304
b) Résumé	315
Notes, Chapter VI	318
VII. Epilogue	387
A. "Cur Deus homo?" "An sit verum?" The cosmological quaerens refused	387
Bibliography	407
Abbreviations	491
Index of names	495
Index of subjects	511

COVENANTAL THEOLOGY

THE EUCHARISTIC ORDER OF HISTORY

VOLUME TWO

Donald J. Keefe, S.J.

University Press of America

Lanham, New York, London

Table of Contents

Volume Two: The Metaphysics of the Covenant

IV. Preliminary Considerations: A Review	1
A. The marital symbol: the ground of metaphysics	1
1. Cosmological dualism and the marital symbol	9
2. Substance as theological and covenantal	11
3. The theological analogy of covenantal being	18
a) The prime analogate: the New Covenant	18
b) The secondary analogates: the imaging of God	23
4. The liturgical a priori of theology	25
Notes, Chapter IV	31
V. The Thomist Covenantal Theology	49
A. The Eucharistic a priori of Thomist metaphysics	49
B. The transubstantiation doctrine of St. Thomas	54
1. The Eucharistic theology of covenantal Thomism	62
a) The act-potency relations of covenantal being	75
(1) Esse and essence	90
(a) The analytic meaning of Esse	93
(b) The analytic meaning of essence	94
(2) Form and matter	107
(a) The analytic meaning of form	109
(b) The analytic meaning of matter	110
(3) Substance and accident	112
(a) The analytic meaning of substance	112
(b) The analytic meaning of accident	115
Notes, Chapter V	120
VI. The Augustinian Covenantal Theology	143
A. The Eucharistic a priori of Augustinian metaphysics	143
1. The Augustinian Eucharistic theology	153
a) Carolingian and medieval Eucharistic theology	177
(1) The ninth century debate	185
(2) The eleventh century controversy	195
(3) A return to Augustine	220
B. Augustinian Eucharistic hylemorphism	234
1. The dialectical transcendental relation	238
a) Form, matter, substance	260
(1) The dialectical meaning of Form	263
(2) The dialectical meaning of matter	273
(3) The dialectical meaning of substance	278
2. The dialectics of understanding	284
a) The phenomenology of illumined consciousness	285
(1) Memoria	297

(2) Intellectus	300
(3) Amor	304
b) Résumé	315
Notes, Chapter VI	318
VII. Epilogue	387
A. " Cur Deus homo? " " An sit verum? " The cosmological quaerens refused	387
Bibliography	407
Abbreviations	491
Index of names	495
Index of subjects	511