

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction and Theoretical Reflections: The Forest as an Epistemological Challenge in the Middle Ages	1
1 Hartmann von Aue's Concept of the Forest: The Arthurian Adventure in the Forest and the Consequences	39
2 The Forest as Staging Ground for the Heroic Protagonist: Glory and Demise in the Nibelungenlied	63
3 The Forest in Wolfram von Eschenbach's Works: The Passage from the Arthurian Court to the Grail Kingdom through the Forest	81
4 The Forest in Gottfried von Straßburg's Tristan and in Alternative Tristan Versions: Courtly Love in the Wilderness	103
5 The Forest in Der Melerantz von Frankreich by The Pleier: Childhood, Growing-Up, and Self-Orientation in the Forest	121
6 The Forest as the Transitional and Transformative Space in Konrad von Würzburg's Partonopier und Meliur	139
7 The Ambivalence of the Forest: Exile or Safe Haven?: The Destiny of the Female Protagonist Refracted in the Forest: Elisabeth von Nassau-Saarbrücken's Königin Sibille	165
8 Forest in Thüring von Ringoltingen's Melusine : Dark Spaces, Mysterious Origins, Meaningful Connections: The Forest and the Establishment of Dynasties	183
Epilogue	211
Bibliography	217

