

Contents

| | |
|---|----|
| Chapter 1: Marlowe and his Critics: 1592-1930 | 1 |
| Initial Responses | 1 |
| A Reputation Retrieved? | 6 |
| 1900-1930 | 13 |
| Chapter 2: Tamburlaine the Great | 17 |
| One Play or Two? | 17 |
| The Fortunes of Tamburlaine | 21 |
| 'High Astounding Terms' | 28 |
| Tamburlaine on Stage | 31 |
| 'This Tragic Glass'? | 34 |
| Chapter 3: Doctor Faustus | 36 |
| The Form of Faustus' Fortunes, A or B? | 36 |
| Theological Perspectives | 41 |
| An 'Interrogative Text'? | 45 |
| Comedy | 47 |
| A Play Without a Middle? | 50 |
| Language | 52 |
| Chapter 4: The Jew of Malta | 56 |
| The Question of Genre | 56 |
| The Figures | 62 |
| Dramatic Unity | 66 |
| Language and Staging | 68 |
| Chapter 5: Edward II | 72 |
| History or Tragedy? | 72 |
| A Political Morality? | 75 |
| The Web of Relationships | 80 |
| Structure | 83 |
| Language and Staging | 84 |

| | |
|------------------------------------|-----|
| Chapter 6: Shorter Plays and Poems | 87 |
| Dido, Queen of Carthage | 87 |
| The Massacre at Paris | 91 |
| Hero and Leander | 94 |
| Ovid's Elegies | 101 |
| Lucan's First Book | 102 |
| | |
| Chapter 7: Marlowe Today | 104 |
| Moralist or Rebel? | 104 |
| In Search of Marlowe | 107 |
| An Ambivalent Ironist? | 110 |
| Historical Approaches | 112 |
| Poet or Playwright? | 114 |
| | |
| Bibliography | 118 |