

Table of Contents

Mary Helen Dupree and Sean Franzel

Introduction: Performing Knowledge, 1750–1850 — 1

Part One: Sounds and Stages

Viktoria Tkaczyk

The Making of Acoustics around 1800, or How to Do Science with Words — 27

Dietmar Till

The Fate of Rhetoric in the “Long” Eighteenth Century — 57

Ellwood Wiggins

Pity Play: Sympathy and Spectatorship in Lessing’s Miss Sara Sampson and Adam Smith’s Theory of Moral Sentiments — 85

Rebecca Wolf

The Sound of Glass: Transparency and Danger — 113

Mary Helen Dupree

Early Schiller Memorials (1805–1808) and the Performance of Literary Knowledge — 137

Hans-Georg von Arburg

Modern Architecture Takes the Stage: Karl Friedrich Schinkel’s Architectural Spectacles — 165

Part Two: Pedagogies and Publics

Claire Baldwin

Performance and Play: Lichtenberg’s Lectures on Experimental Physics — 193

Chad Wellmon

Kant on the Logic of Anthropology and the Ethics of Disciplinarity — 221

Michael Bies

Staging the Knowledge of Plants: Goethe's Elegy "The Metamorphosis of Plants" — 247

Edgar Landgraf

Playing to the Public: Performing Politics in Heinrich von Kleist — 269

Sean Franzel

Constructions of the Present and the Philosophy of History in the Lecture Form — 295

Adrian Daub

Eighteenth- and Nineteenth-Century Forms of Musical Knowledge: The Case of the Piano — 323

Angela Esterhammer

Afterword: The Audience, the Public, and the Improvisator Maximilian Langenschwarz — 341

Bibliography — 347

Index — 377