

Contents

Preface	vii
SECTION I	1
Survey
1 Language change as a matter of fact	3
Attitudes to language change	6
Language state and process	8
The aims and scope of historical linguistics	9
2 Reconstructing the past: data and evidence	11
The data of historical linguistics	11
The written evidence	12
Sources of evidence	14
Comparing and reconstructing languages	15
Correspondences between languages	17
Laws of change	20
Internal reconstruction	22
3 Vocabulary change	25
Coining new words	26
Changes of meaning	29
Why do word meanings change?	32
4 Grammatical change	35
Morphological change	35
Syntactic change	39
5 Sound change	45
How sounds are produced	45
Phonetic change	46
Phonemic change	50

6 Language contact	55
Borrowing from other languages	55
Convergence and linguistic areas	58
Language birth: pidgins and creoles	59
Language death	62
7 How and why do languages change?	67
Functional explanations	68
Psycholinguistic explanations: language acquisition	70
Sociolinguistic explanations	71
The origin and spread of changes	76
8 Postscript: further developments	81
Socio-historical linguistics and historical pragmatics	81
Evolutionary linguistics	82
Standardization and language planning	83
Conclusion	85
 SECTION 2
Readings	87
 SECTION 3
References	115
 SECTION 4
Glossary	123