

Contents

Chapter 1. Introduction	7
Encountering history	8
History in Swedish schools	9
Knowledge	11
History and knowledge	13
Applied research on knowledge about history	18
Meaning	19
Materials and methods	21
The content of the book	24
Chapter 2. 100 years of knowledge about history	27
A 100-year perspective – similarities	28
Differences	31
A two-dimensional analysis – similarities	36
Differences	38
Summary conclusions	40
Chapter 3. Pupils encounter history	43
At the end of the last century	43
The current picture	45
How pupils learn history	47
Encountering history at school	50
In-class activities	52
Summary conclusions	54
Chapter 4. Pupils and knowledge about history	57
How do pupils describe knowledge about history?	58
What forms of knowledge do pupils demonstrate?	62
Conclusions	65
Chapter 5. Pupils' meaning-making in encountering history	67
(Birgitta E. Gustafsson)
Making meaning	67
Pupils' encounters with history – an interview study	72

Two patterns of thought	80
Didactic consequences.....	81
Chapter 6. Teachers' views of knowledge about history	85
Examining the view of knowledge	86
The teachers' responses.....	87
The taxonomy analysis framework	90
Relativism, attributing and "educated guesses"	92
Chapter 7. Relations between history and students: syllabi and textbooks, 1905–2005	95
History textbooks and pupils.....	97
Curricula and syllabi for the subject of history	105
Relations between the subject of history and students – a summary discussion.....	111
Chapter 8. Ethical values bridging knowledge about history	117
History education – values – history.....	118
Two perspectives in history textbooks	120
Values convey history	121
Pupils, values and history.....	124
History and values – a "prima-vista" view	124
An applied example.....	127
Summary	129
Chapter 9. To learn and to know history.....	131
The pupil and the syllabus.....	131
The pupil and history.....	133
The pupil and knowledge about history	134
The pupil and meaning.....	136
The pupil and the teachers	137
The pupil and the instructional content	137
Pupils – history – values	139
A natural dimension in human life — knowing something about history.....	140
References.....	143