

CONTENTS

Preface	vii
Maps	ix
I INTRODUCTION	1
II NARRATIVE
1. The Roman-Persian Treaty of 299: a dictated settlement	5
2. Constantine I: aggressive defence	8
3. Constantius II: facing the limitations of Roman power	12
4. Julian and Jovian: the consequences of aggression	24
5. Valens: confrontation and disaster	30
6. Theodosius I: a policy of accommodation	39
7. Arcadius and Yezdegerd I: fraternal cooperation	46
8. Theodosius II and Yezdegerd I: good will and its erosion	52
9. Theodosius II, 422-450: war and diplomacy	59
10. Marcian: the pressure is relaxed	67
11. Leo: the pressure returns	71
12. Zeno: foreign relations and domestic politics	79
13. Anastasius: a measured approach to foreign policy	86
III THE ENVIRONMENT
1. The Circumstances	97
2. The Responses	106
3. The Control of Tensions	121
IV POLICY AND ITS INSTRUMENTS
1. The Formation of Foreign Policy	129
2. The Instruments of Policy	137
3. The Structure of Diplomacy	151
V CONCLUSION	165
Notes	170
Bibliography	257
Indexes	269