

Contents

Abbreviations, xi

Author's Note, xiii

1. Introduction: Talismanic and Apotropaic Images in Ancient Greece, 3
 - Some Preliminary Definitions and Distinctions*, 3
 - Animated and Consecrated Talismans*, 5
 - Apotropaia at the Threshold*, 7
 - Further Methodological Considerations*, 9
2. Beastly Guardians at the Gate, 18
 - Hephaestus the Magician and His Animated Talismans*, 18
 - Near Eastern Guardian Statues*, 21
 - Cultural Borrowing in the Eastern Mediterranean*, 26
3. Fighting Fire with Fire, 36
 - Severed Heads and Other Apotropaic Trophies*, 37
 - The Aversion of Noxious Animals and Evil Omens*, 39
 - Theriomorphic Demons and House Amulets*, 44
4. Dangerous Gods and Powerful Statues, 54
 - Effigies of Fire and Death*, 55
 - Bow-Bearing Plague Gods: Heracles, Apollo, and Artemis*, 57
 - A Rare Case Study: Phoebus and the Great Plague of A.D. 166*, 61
 - The Coincidence of Plague and Military Invasion*, 64
5. Binding and Burying an Effigy of Evil, 74
 - Ares Bound in Myth and Ritual*, 74
 - Bound Statues in Egypt and the Near East: Some Comparative Data*, 78

Cyrenean Kolossoi and Early Greek Ghost-Banning Rituals, 81
Public and Private Magic in the Eastern Mediterranean, 84

6. The Trojan Horse, Pandora, and the Ruse of the Talismanic Statue, 94

Odysseus, Sinon, and the Aggressive Use of the Pharmakos, 96
The Ruse of the Talismanic Statue: Artemis and Pandora, 100
Marvelous Omens and “Superstitious” Fools, 102

7. Epilogue: Trajectories into History and Art, 113

The Discontinuity of Evidence for “Magic” in the Classical Period, 114
The “Rhetorical” Nature of Apotropaic Art, 117

Appendix 1. Reshep, Irra, and the “Oriental” Apollo, 125

Appendix 2. Apollo the Mouse and Heracles the Locust, 128

Appendix 3. Apotropaic Foot-Twisting, 133

Appendix 4. The Incarceration of Dread Goddesses, 136

Bibliography, 141

Index of Passages Cited from Ancient Texts, 171

Index of Foreign Words, 179

Index of Subjects, 183