I. INTRODUCTION

1. Introduction    3

- 1.1 The Main Branches of Economic Theory    3
- 1.2 The Scope of International Economics    5
- 1.3 The Role of Trade    6
- 1.4 Plan of the Book    7
- Selected Bibliography    8

II. THE CLASSICAL THEORY

2. Supply 13

2.1	The Problem	13
2.2	The Labor Theory of Value	14
2.3	Absolute Advantage	16
2.4	Comparative Advantage	19
2.5	Opportunity Cost	21
2.6	Limits of the Terms of Trade and Wage Rates	24
2.7	Production-Possibilities Frontiers	31
2.8	The World Production-Possibilities Frontier	34
2.9	Trade in Intermediate Products: A Digression	37

3. Demand and International Equilibrium 43

3.1	Indifference Curves	43
3.2	International Equilibrium in Terms of Price-Consumption Curves	47
3.3	Offer Curves	56
3.4	Walras's Law and International Equilibrium	64
3.5	Limitations of the Classical Theory	67
3.6	Empirical Evidence	68

APPENDIX. MANY COMMODITIES AND MANY COUNTRIES 70

	Selected Bibliography	82
--	-----------------------	----

III. THE NEOCLASSICAL THEORY

4. Opportunity Cost 85

4.1	Production Functions	86
4.2	Linear Homogeneous Production Functions	91
4.3	The Production Function of the Industry	96
4.4	The Box Diagram	101
4.5	The Production-Possibilities Frontier	105
4.6	Interindustry Flows and the Production-Possibilities Frontier	115
4.7	Some Difficulties with the Production-Possibilities Frontier	118

APPENDIX A. FACTOR PRICES AND FACTOR PROPORTIONS FOR THE FIRM 118

APPENDIX B. POINTS AND VECTORS 125

Selected Bibliography 128

5. Community Indifference and Comparative Advantage 129

PART A. COMMUNITY INDIFFERENCE 129

- 5.1 Definition and Difficulties 130
- 5.2 Justification of Social Indifference Curves in Some Special Cases 133

PART B. GENERAL EQUILIBRIUM AND COMPARATIVE ADVANTAGE 140

- 5.3 General Equilibrium in a Closed Economy 140
- 5.4 Equilibrium in a Simple Open Economy 141
- 5.5 Neoclassical Demonstration of Comparative Advantage 147

APPENDIX. SCITOVSKY'S SOCIAL INDIFFERENCE CURVES 151

Selected Bibliography 153

6. International Equilibrium 155

PART A. MEADE'S GEOMETRIC TECHNIQUE 156

- 6.1 Introduction 156
- 6.2 The Need for a Trade Indifference Map 156
- 6.3 Derivation of Trade Indifference Curves 158
- 6.4 Properties of the Trade Indifference Map 162
- 6.5 The Offer Curve 163
- 6.6 International Equilibrium 168

PART B. ELASTICITIES, STABILITY, AND MULTIPLE EQUILIBRIA 171

- 6.7 Three Important Elasticities 171
- 6.8 Stability 176
- 6.9 Multiple Equilibria 179

APPENDIX. TRADE INDIFFERENCE CURVES 181

Selected Bibliography 183

7. Increasing Returns      184

- 7.1 A Simple Model of a Closed Economy      186
- 7.2 The Offer Curve      189
- 7.3 International Equilibrium      193

APPENDIX. EXAMPLES OF EXTERNAL ECONOMIES      199

- Selected Bibliography      201

IV. THE MODERN THEORY

8. Factor Intensity and Factor Abundance      205

PART A. THE STANDARD MODEL      206

- 8.1 Some Basic Assumptions of the Standard Model      206
- 8.2 The Meaning of “Factor Intensity”      208

PART B. INTERINDUSTRY FLOWS      221

- 8.3 Samuelson’s Sweeping Theorem on Intermediate Products      221
- 8.4 Direct (or Net) Versus Total (or Gross) Factor Intensities      222

PART C. PURE INTERMEDIATE PRODUCTS      224

- 8.5 Structure of Production      224
- 8.6 Full Employment Equations      225
- 8.7 Net and Gross Factor Intensities      226

PART D. DEFINITIONS OF RELATIVE FACTOR ABUNDANCE      227

APPENDIX. INTERMEDIATE PRODUCTS AND THE PRODUCTION FUNCTION OF AN INTEGRATED INDUSTRY      229

- Selected Bibliography      233

9. Factor Proportions, Factor Prices, and Commodity Prices 235

PART A. FACTOR PRICES AND FACTOR INTENSITIES

- 9.1 The Optimum Coefficients of Production 236
- 9.2 The Effect of Factor-Price Variations on Optimum Factor Proportions 236
- 9.3 The Overall Factor-Endowment Ratio as a Weighted Average of  $\rho_x$  and  $\rho_y$  238
- 9.4 An Important Lemma 238
- 9.5 Reconciliation Between the Variable  $\rho_x$  and  $\rho_y$  and the Fixed Overall Factor-Endowment Ratio  $\rho$  240

PART B. FACTOR PRICES AND COMMODITY PRICES 242

- 9.6 A Heuristic Proof 243
- 9.7 A Rigorous Proof 244

PART C. THE RANGE OF FACTOR PRICES AND COMMODITY PRICES IN A CLOSED ECONOMY 246

- 9.8 Summary of Parts A and B 246
- 9.9 The Overall Factor-Endowment Ratio and the Possible Range of the Factor-Price Ratio 247
- 9.10 The Outputs of  $X$  and  $Y$  248
- 9.11 The Allocation of Labor and Land 249
- 9.12 Technical Change and the Range of Variation of Factor Prices 249
- 9.13 The Range of Variation of Commodity Prices in General 250
- 9.14 The Range of Variation of Commodity Prices When Both Commodities Are Produced 251

PART D. EQUILIBRIUM IN A CLOSED ECONOMY 253

- Selected Bibliography 254

10. The Cause and Effect of International Trade 255

PART A. THE FACTOR-PRICE EQUALIZATION THEOREM 255

- 10.1 Introduction 256
- 10.2 The Basic Model 256
- 10.3 Factor-Price Equalization 257

PART B. THE HECKSCHER–OHLIN THEOREM	258
10.4 The Heckscher–Ohlin Theorem When the Price Definition of Factor Abundance Is Adopted	258
10.5 The Heckscher–Ohlin Theorem When the Physical Definition of Factor Abundance Is Adopted	260
10.6 The Heckscher–Ohlin Theorem: Summary	265
PART C. CLARIFICATIONS, EXTENSIONS, AND QUALIFICATIONS	266
10.7 The Modern Theory in the Absence of Factor-Intensity Reversals	266
10.8 Factor-Intensity Reversals	273
10.9 The Identity of Production Functions Between Countries	280
10.10 Some Differences Between the Classical and the Heckscher–Ohlin Theories	282
10.11 The Empirical Relevance of the Assumptions of the Factor-Price Equalization Theorem	283
APPENDIX. MANY COUNTRIES, MANY COMMODITIES, AND MANY FACTORS	285
Selected Bibliography	295

11. The Leontief Paradox 298

11.1 Introduction	298
11.2 Empirical Findings: The Pattern of U.S. Trade	299
11.3 Trade Patterns of Other Countries	300
11.4 Explanations of the Leontief Paradox	301
Selected Bibliography	306

V. ECONOMIC GROWTH AND TRADE

12. The Effects of Economic Growth on Trade 313

PART A. THE EFFECTS OF GROWTH ON THE SMALL COUNTRY	314
12.1 Definitions	314
12.2 Growth Under Classical Assumptions (Complete Specialization)	319
12.3 Neoclassical and Modern Theories (Incomplete Specialization)	325

PART B. THE EFFECTS OF GROWTH ON THE LARGE COUNTRY 331

- 12.4 Complete Specialization 331
- 12.5 Incomplete Specialization 336
- Selected Bibliography 338

13. The Sources of Economic Growth and International Trade 339

PART A. FACTOR GROWTH 339

- 13.1 The Production Effect at Constant Terms of Trade 340
- 13.2 The Importance of the Initial Factor-Price Ratio 344
- 13.3 The Type of Overall Growth 346
- 13.4 The Effect on Social Welfare 347

PART B. TECHNICAL PROGRESS 349

- 13.5 Embodied Versus Disembodied Technical Progress 349
- 13.6 Classification of Disembodied Technical Progress 350
- 13.7 Technical Progress in the Labor-Intensive Industry ( $X$ ) 354
- 13.8 Technical Progress in the Capital-Intensive Industry ( $Y$ ) 358
- 13.9 The Effect of Technical Progress on the Terms of Trade 358
- 13.10 The Effect of Technical Progress on Social Welfare 358
- Selected Bibliography 360

14. Growth in a Simple Open Economy 362

- 14.1 The Assumptions 363
- 14.2 Equilibrium in the Short Run 364
- 14.3 Equilibrium in the Long Run 371
- 14.4 Comparative Dynamics 378
- Selected Bibliography 390

VI. TRADE AND WELFARE

15. Trade and the Welfare of Individuals 395

PART A. INTRODUCTION 395

- 15.1 The Two Approaches 396
- 15.2 Pseudoarguments for Free Trade 397

PART B. SOME CASES IN WHICH THE INTRODUCTION OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE IMPROVES THE WELFARE OF EVERYBODY 398

- 15.3 The Classical Theory Again 398
- 15.4 Two Factors but Constant Opportunity Costs 400
- 15.5 Identical Tastes and Factor Endowments 403

PART C. INTERNATIONAL TRADE MAY HURT SOME INDIVIDUALS 404

- 15.6 Uniform Factor Ownership but Different Tastes 404
- 15.7 Workers Versus Landlords 407
- Selected Bibliography 415

16. The Gains from International Trade 416

- 16.1 The Social Welfare Function 416
- 16.2 The Utility-Possibility Frontier 418
- 16.3 The Gains from International Trade: The Case of the Small Country 426
- 16.4 The Gains from International Trade: The Case of the Large Country 432
- 16.5 The Gains from Trade: The World as a Whole 435
- Selected Bibliography 438

VII. INTERNATIONAL TRADE POLICY

17. Import and Export Taxes: The Case of the Small Country 441

PART A. CLASSIFICATION OF TRADE CONTROLS 442

PART B. TARIFFS 444

- 17.1 The Setting 444
- 17.2 The Imposition of a Nonprohibitive Tariff 445
- 17.3 The Effects of the Nonprohibitive Tariff 452
- 17.4 The Cum-Tariff Consumption-Possibilities Frontier, Prohibitive
Tariffs, and Welfare Loss 455

PART C. THE SYMMETRY BETWEEN EXPORT AND IMPORT TAXES AND SUBSIDIES 458

- 17.5 The Imposition of an Export Tax 459
- 17.6 Import and Export Subsidies 459
- Selected Bibliography 461

18. Import and Export Taxes: The Case of the Large Country 463

PART A. IMPORT AND EXPORT TAXES 463

- 18.1 The Trade-Tax-Distorted Offer Curve 463
- 18.2 Trade Taxes and the Barter Terms of Trade 469
- 18.3 Trade Taxes and Domestic Prices 473

PART B. QUANTITATIVE RESTRICTIONS 482

- Selected Bibliography 483

19. Trade Taxes and Welfare 485

PART A. TRADE TAXES AND THE WELFARE OF THE WORLD 485

- 19.1 The World Production-Possibilities Frontier in the Narrow Sense 485
- 19.2 The Inefficiencies of Trade Taxes 486

PART B. TRADE TAXES AND THE WELFARE OF THE TAX-IMPOSING COUNTRY: THE STOLPER-SAMUELSON THEOREM 487

- 19.3 The Correct Formulation of the Stolper-Samuelson Theorem 487
- 19.4 Complete Specialization 488
- 19.5 Different Factor Intensities 489
- 19.6 Other Formulations of the Stolper-Samuelson Theorem 490
- 19.7 Redistribution of the Tax Revenue 491

PART C. TRADE TAXES AND THE WELFARE OF THE TAX-IMPOSING COUNTRY: THE OPTIMUM TARIFF 492

- 19.8 The Baldwin Frontier 493
- 19.9 The Marginal Barter Terms of Trade and Pareto Optimality 494
- 19.10 Consumption Equilibrium and the Optimum Tariff Rate 495
- 19.11 Social Indifference Curves and the Optimum Tariff Rate 496
- 19.12 Retaliation 497
  - Selected Bibliography 498

20. Domestic Distortions 500

- 20.1 Introduction 500
- 20.2 Conditions for Pareto Optimality 501
- 20.3 Anatomy of Market Failure 503
- 20.4 The General Rule for Optimal Intervention 505

20.5	Monopoly-Monopsony Power in International Trade	505
20.6	Distortions in Domestic Production	507
20.7	Distortions in Domestic Consumption	511
20.8	Factor-Price Differentials	513
20.9	Factor Immobility and Factor-Price Rigidity	520
	Selected Bibliography	524
21.	The Infant-Industry Argument and Noneconomic Objectives	525
	PART A. THE INFANT-INDUSTRY ARGUMENT	525
21.1	The Formulation of the Infant-Industry Argument by John Stuart Mill	526
21.2	Economies of the Learning Process and Optimal Policy	527
21.3	Graphical Illustration	528
	PART B. THE THEORY OF NONECONOMIC OBJECTIVES	530
21.4	Achievement of a Production Goal	531
21.5	Achievement of a Consumption Goal	532
21.6	Reduction of Imports as the Noneconomic Objective	533
21.7	Achievement of a Certain Level of Employment of a Factor of Production	535
21.8	An Important Duality Theorem	539
	Selected Bibliography	539
22.	The Theory of Customs Unions: I. The Partial Equilibrium Approach	542
22.1	Introduction	542
22.2	The Theory of the Second Best	544
22.3	Preferential Trading Arrangements: Definitions	545
22.4	Trade Creation and Trade Diversion	546
22.5	Trade-Diverting Customs Unions and Welfare Improvement	553
22.6	Dynamic Effects of Customs Unions	558
22.7	Meade's Welfare Index	559
	Selected Bibliography	561
23.	The Theory of Customs Unions: II. The General Equilibrium Approach	563
	PART A. FREE-TRADE EQUILIBRIUM AND THE EFFECTS OF TARIFFS	564
23.1	Free-Trade Equilibrium	564
23.2	Tariff-Ridden Trade	565

PART B. PREFERENTIAL TRADING: 1. DISSIMILAR ECONOMIES 567

- 23.3 Free-Trade Associations 568
- 23.4 Exchange of Preferences Between A and B 575
- 23.5 Optimal Policy 580

PART C. PREFERENTIAL TRADING: 2. SIMILAR ECONOMIES 580

- 23.6 Formulation of a Customs Union 580
- 23.7 The Union Adopts the Lower (B's) Tariff Rate 581
- 23.8 The Union Adopts the Higher (A's) Tariff Rate 583
- Selected Bibliography 585
