

Table of Contents

	page
Foreword
Introduction	1
1 The Eve of the Great War	5
The working population	10
Migration movements	13
Foreign population in France	13
The Frenchman abroad	19
Internal migration	20
Natural population movements	22
Birth-rate, marriages and fecundity	22
Mortality	25
Births and deaths – the ‘balance-sheet’	27
2 The Great War	29
Geographic movements of the population	29
The dead, and the dying	37
Natural population movements	47
The non-invaded zone	47
The invaded zone	54
Population growth in non-invaded France	55
3 Between the Wars	57
The return ‘home’, 1918-20	58
The state of the population, 1921-39	63
The working population	67
The foreign population	71
Natural movements – a disappearing population	78
4 The Second World War	87
The demographic causes of defeat	87
The occupation years	104
The demographic consequences of the Second World War	116
Natural population movements during the war	128

5 Rebirth of a Nation, 1945-62	132
Knowledge and attitudes	142
The 'boom' goes to school	159
The housing problem	164
6 'Le vierge, le vivace, et le bel aujourd'hui'	175
The world and zero population growth	176
The French and 'croissance zéro'	181
Migration movements in France	191
The foreign population in France	208
The state of the population	212
The working population	219
What may the future hold?	230
References	235
Select Bibliography	240
Index	242