

Contents

Introduction	1
R. Howard Bloch and Stephen G. Nichols

PART I. FOUNDING THE DISCIPLINE

1. Modernism and the Politics of Medieval Studies	25
Stephen G. Nichols
2. National Identity and the Politics of Publishing the Troubadours	57
John M. Graham
3. The Science of Imposture and the Professionalization of Medieval Occitan Literary Studies	95
Laura Kendrick
4. "In the Beginning Was the Word": Germany and the Origins of German Studies	127
Jeffrey M. Peck
5. The Myth of Medieval Romance	148
John M. Ganim

PART II. FOUNDERS OF THE DISCIPLINE

6. “Du bon et du bon marché”: The Abbé Migne’s Fabulous Industrialization of the Church Fathers 169
R. Howard Bloch
7. Gaston Paris and the Invention of Courtly Love 192
David F. Hult
8. Feminism and the Discipline of Old French Studies:
Une Bele Disjointure 225
E. Jane Burns, Sarah Kay, Roberta L. Krueger, and Helen Solterer

PART III. CONTINUATORS OF THE DISCIPLINE

9. Joseph Bédier, Philologist and Writer 269
Alain Corbellari
10. A Warrior Scholar at the Collège de France: Joseph Bédier . . 286
Per Nykrog
11. Making Mimesis: Erich Auerbach and the Institutions of Medieval Studies 308
Seth Lerer
12. Ernst Robert Curtius and the Topos of the Literary Critic . 334
Carl Landauer
13. Kantorowicz, or the Middle Ages as Refuge 355
Alain Boureau

PART IV. THE DISCIPLINE AND ITS OTHERS

14. Philological Iconoclasm: Edition and Image in the
Vie de Saint Alexis 371
Michael Camille
15. Methodologies and Ideologies in Historical Grammar:
A Case Study from Old French 402
Suzanne Fleischman

16. A Sad and Weary History: The Grundriß der romanischen Literaturen des Mittelalters 439
Hans Ulrich Gumbrecht

PART V. DOCUMENT

17. Preface to Kinder- und Hausmärchen gesammelt durch die Brüder Grimm (1819) 475
Translated and edited by Hans Ulrich Gumbrecht and Jeffrey T. Schnapp

Contributors 493