

Contents

Maps	xi
Abbreviations	xxiv
Preface	xxv
Introduction	xxvii
1 The Birth of the Crusading Movement:
The Preaching of the First Crusade	1
Background	1
Pope Urban II	2
The response	10
2 The Course of the First Crusade	18
The first wave	18
The second wave	20
The third wave	34
The development of the idea of crusading	37
3 The Holy Places and the Catholic Patriarchates of
Jerusalem and Antioch	40
The founding of the Latin settlements	40
The establishment of the Latin Church	43
Characteristics of the Latin Church	50
The contribution of the Latin Church	56
4 Settlement, Government and Defence of the Latin East, 1097–1187	61
Countryside and town	61
Administration	64
The crown and the lords	69
The defence of the settlements	77
The Battle of Hattin and loss of Jerusalem	84

5 Crusading in Adolescence, 1101–1187	88
The immaturity of twelfth-century crusading	88
The early crusades of the twelfth century	89
The crusade of Calixtus II	91
The crusade of 1128–9, the first proclamation of a political crusade, and Gratian's Decretum	93
The Second Crusade	93
Low morale	104
The development of traditions	107
6 Crusading at its Height, 1187–1229	109
The Third Crusade	109
The crusade of 1197	118
Pope Innocent III	119
The Fourth Crusade	121
The Baltic crusades	130
The crusade against Markward of Anweiler	132
The Albigensian Crusade	133
Crusading in Spain	139
The Children's Crusade and the preaching of the Fifth Crusade	141
The course of the Fifth Crusade	145
The crusade of Frederick II	149
7 Crusading reaches Maturity, 1229–c.1291	152
Crusading thought in the mid-thirteenth century	152
The crusades of 1239–41	154
The first crusade of St Louis	157
Crusading in Prussia and Livonia	161
Crusading in Spain	165
Crusades against heretics	166
Political crusades	167
The second crusade of St Louis	173
Pope Gregory X	176
The failure to launch a great crusade after 1276	177

8 The Latin East, 1192–c.1291	179
Cilician Armenia	179
Cyprus	180
Greece	181
The Italians	187
The Aiyubids	190
Antioch-Tripoli	191
Constitutional conflict in the kingdom of Jerusalem	192
The Mamluks, and changes in the Asiatic trade routes	200
The Mamluk Conquests	203
The destruction of the settlements in Palestine and Syria	204
9 The Variety of Crusading, c.1291–1523	208
The range of options	208
Crusade theoreticians	209
The fall of the Templars	210
The Teutonic Knights in Prussia and Livonia	212
The Hospitallers of St John on Rhodes	215
Cyprus	217
Greece	219
Crusading in Spain and Italy, 1302–78	221
Crusading to the East, 1291–1370	224
Concern about the Turks	228
Crusades engendered by the Great Schism	230
The crusades of Mahdia and Nicopolis	230
Crusading against the Turks, 1397–1413	232
The Hussite crusades	233
The crusade of Varna	234
Reactions to the loss of Constantinople	235
The conquest of Granada and the invasion of North Africa	237
Crusade plans, 1484–1522	238
10 The Old Age and Death of the Crusading Movement, 1523–1798	241
The Reformation	241
North Africa	243
The eastern theatre	246
The Hospitallers of St John and Malta	251
Conclusion	255
A Select Bibliography of Secondary Works	259
A Note on Sources in Translation	271
Index	275