

Contents

Preface	page xi
Acknowledgements	xvii
I PROTECTION WITH COMPETITIVE MARKETS
1 Basic international trade theory	3
1.1 The Heckscher–Ohlin–Samuelson model	3
1.2 Factor intensities, factor prices and product prices	9
1.3 Factor endowments and the Rybczynski theorem	13
1.4 Specific factors and income distribution in the short run	15
1.5 Determination of world prices	18
1.6 Summary	24
2 Protection for a small country	25
2.1 Tariffs in the HOS model	25
2.2 Tariffs and non-economic objectives	30
2.3 Quantitative restrictions	38
2.4 Local content schemes	40
2.5 Export subsidies	43
2.6 Export taxes and the Lerner symmetry theorem	45
2.7 Preferential government procurement policies	47
2.8 Measuring the costs of a tariff	48
2.9 Effective protection	53
2.10 Summary	58
3 Import quotas and tariffs: Some other issues	60
3.1 Quotas and heterogeneous product categories	61
3.2 Dynamic non-equivalence of tariffs and quotas	64
3.3 Tariffs and quotas under uncertainty	66
3.4 The rent-seeking cost of tariffs and quotas	74
3.5 Summary	83
4 Protection for a large country	84
4.1 The optimal tariff	84
4.2 Tariffs and retaliation	89

viii	Contents
	4.3 Quotas and retaliation	93
	4.4 Voluntary export restraints	96
	4.5 Variable import levies and export subsidies	100
	4.6 Summary	103
II PROTECTION AND IMPERFECT COMPETITION
5	Monopoly	107
	5.1 Increasing costs	108
	5.2 Economies of scale	116
	5.3 The optimal tariff for extracting foreign rents	122
	5.4 Summary	125
6	Oligopoly	127
	6.1 Tariffs and rent shifting	128
	6.2 Exporting by the domestic firm	133
	6.3 Trade restrictions as facilitating practices	140
	6.4 Free entry and integrated markets	143
	6.5 Empirical studies	146
	6.6 Summary	149
7	Monopolistic competition and product differentiation	151
	7.1 Types of product differentiation	152
	7.2 International trade with SDS product differentiation	153
	7.3 The Lancaster model	161
	7.4 The composition of trade	167
	7.5 Falvey model of product differentiation	168
	7.6 Summary	172
III THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF PROTECTION
8	Endogenous protection	177
	8.1 Direct majority voting	178
	8.2 Pressure groups	181
	8.3 Lobbies and political parties	189
	8.4 The choice of protective instrument	192
	8.5 Summary	198
IV REDUCING PROTECTION
9	Approaches to reducing protection I: Unilateral reform	203
	9.1 Piecemeal tariff reform	203
	9.2 Tariff reform in the presence of adjustment costs	218
	9.3 Measurement of the gains from reduced protection	223
	9.4 Summary	227

10	Approaches to reducing protection II: Multilateral reform	230
10.1	Welfare-improving tariff cutting formulae	232
10.2	Preferential tariff reduction	234
10.3	Negotiated tariff reductions	246
10.4	Summary	250

APPENDICES

Appendix 1	The two-sector trade model	255
Appendix 2	Optimal policies in the presence of non-economic objectives	262
Appendix 3	The Cournot–Nash model of Sections 6.1 and 6.2	267
Appendix 4	Derivation of results in Section 8.2	270
Appendix 5	Derivation of results in Section 9.2	273
Appendix 6	Derivation of equations (5) and (6) in Chapter 10	276
Notes		278
References		289
Index		299