

CONTENTS

Preface		i—ii
I	Some Recent Works on the Political Theories of the Medieval Canonists Traditio X. New York, 1954	594—625
II	Pope and Council: Some New Decretist Texts Medieval Studies XIX. Toronto, 1957	197—218
III	“The Prince is not Bound by the Laws”. Accursius and the Origins of the Modern State Comparative Studies in Society and History V. The Hague, 1963	378—400
IV	Bracton on Government Speculum XXXVIII. Cambridge, Mass., 1963	295—317
V	The Continuity of Papal Political Theory in the Thirteenth Century: Some Methodological Considerations Medieval Studies XXVII. Toronto, 1965	227—245

VI	Grosseteste and the Theory of Papal Sovereignty	1–17
	Journal of Ecclesiastical History VI. London, 1955
VII	Natura id est Deus: a Case of Juristic Pantheism?	307–322
	Journal of the History of Ideas XXIV. New York, 1963
VIII	The Decretists and the “Deserving Poor”	360–373
	Comparative Studies in Society and History I. The Hague, 1959
IX	“Sola Scriptura” and the Canonists	345–366
	Collectanea Stephan Kuttner I = Studia Gratiana XI. Rome, 1967
X	A Scriptural Text in the Decretales and in St. Thomas: Canonistic Exegesis of Luke 22-32	363–377
	Mélanges G. Fransen II = Studia Gratiana XX. Rome, 1976
XI	Ockham, the Conciliar Theory, and the Canonists	40–70
	Journal of the History of Ideas XV. New York, 1954

XII	Hermeneutics and History: the Problem of Haec Sancta	354–370
	Essays in Medieval History Presented to Bertie Wilkinson, ed. T.A.Sandquist and M.R.Powicke. University of Toronto Press, Toronto, 1968
XIII	“Divided Sovereignty” at Constance. A Problem of Medieval and Early Modern Political Theory	238–256
	Annuario Historiae Conciliorum 7. Augsburg, 1975
XIV	“Only the Truth has Authority”: The Problem of “Reception” in the Decretists and in Johannis de Turrecremata	69–96
	Law, Church and Society. Essays in Honor of Stephan Kuttner, ed. Kenneth Pennington and Robert Somerville. University of Pennsylvania Press, Philadelphia, 1977
XV	Medieval Canon Law and Western Constitutionalism	1–17
	Catholic Historical Review 52. Washington D.C., 1966
Index		1–5

This volume contains a total of 340 pages
