

CONTENTS

AND LIST OF THE ENGRAVINGS.

— ENGRAVINGS. —

	Page
Ayr—The Market Cross,	Frontis.
Portrait of Mrs. Dunlop of Dunlop,	36
Portrait of John Moore, M.D., author of "Zeluco,"	48
Portrait of the Rev. Dr. Lawrie, minister of Loudon,	49
Facsimile of the MS. of "Verses intended to be written below a noble Earl's picture,"	54
Portrait of the Rev. John Skinner, author of "Tullochgorum,"	74
Portrait of James Cunningham, Earl of Glencairn,	86
Portrait of Dr. Blacklock, the blind poet,	116
Friars' Carse, Nithsdale, the residence of Captain Riddell,	148
Alloway Kirk,	174
Portrait of John Syme, distributor of stamps, Dumfries,	245

GENERAL CORRESPONDENCE, 15-256

	Page		Page
To -----,	15	To Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	22
'What you may think of this,'		'I ought in gratitude to have,'
Year 1780 or 1781.		" Mr. Thomas Orr, Kirkoswald,	23
To Ellison (or Alison) Begbie,	15	'I am much obliged to you for,'
'I do not remember,'		Year 1786.
" Ellison (or Alison) Begbie,	16	To Mr. John Richmond, Edinburgh,	23
'I verily believe, my dear E.,'		'I have not time at present,'
" Ellison (or Alison) Begbie,	17	" Mr. James Smith, Mauchline,	24
'I have often thought it,'		'. Against two things I am,'
Year 1781.		" Mr. John Kennedy,	24
To Ellison (or Alison) Begbie,	17	'I have done myself the pleasure,'
'I ought, in good manners,'		" Mr. Robert Muir, Kilmarnock,	24
" William Burness,	18	'I am heartily sorry I had not,'
'I have purposely delayed writing,'		" Mr. Aiken,	24
" Sir John Whitefoord of Ballochmyle,	19	'I received your kind letter with double,'
'We who subscribe this,'		" [John Ballantine, of Ayr],	25
Year 1783.		'My proposals came to hand last night,'
To Mr. John Murdoch, London,	19	" Mr. M'Whinnie, Ayr,	25
'As I have an opportunity of sending,		'It is injuring some hearts,'
" Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	20	" Mr. John Kennedy,	25
'My father received your favour,'		'By some neglect in Mr. Hamilton,
Year 1784.		" John Arnot, of Dalquhatswood,	26
To Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	22	'I have long wished for some kind,'
'I would have returned you,'		" Mr. John Kennedy,	28
		'I have sent you the above hasty,'

	Page		Page
To Mr. David Brice,	28	To Gavin Hamilton, Esq., Mauchline,	41
'I received your message by G. Paterson,'		'I have paid every attention to,'
" Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	28	" John Ballantine, Esq., Ayr,	41
'I wrote you about three half,'		'I would not write you till,'
" John Richmond, Edinburgh,	29	" Mr. Robert Muir, Kilmarnock,	42
'With the sincerest grief I read,'		'I delayed writing you till,'
" Mr. David Brice, Glasgow,	29	" Mr. Robert Aiken, Ayr,	43
'I have been so throng printing,'		'I wrote Mr. Ballantine at large,'
" Mr. John Richmond,	29	" Mr. Robert Muir,	43
'My hour is now come—you and I,'		'I have just time for the carrier,'
" Mr. John Kennedy,	30	" Mr. William Chalmers, Ayr,	43
'Your truly facetious epistle,'		'I confess I have sinned the sin,'
" John Logan, Esq., of Laight,	30	" Lord Monboddo,	44
'I gratefully thank you for your kind,'		'I shall do myself the honour,'
" Mons. James Smith, Mauchline,	30
'I went to Dr. Douglas yesterday,'		Year 1787.
" Mons. Thomas Campbell, Pencloe,	31	To Mr. James Sibbald, Bookseller,	44
'I have met with few men in my life,'		'So little am I acquainted with,'
" William Niven, Maybole,	31	" Gavin Hamilton, Esq.,	44
'I have been very throng ever since,'		'To tell the truth among friends,'
" Mr. John Richmond, Edinburgh,	32	" Mr. Mackenzie, Surgeon, Mauchline,	45
'Wish me luck, dear Richmond,'		'Yours gave me something like,'
" Mr. Robert Muir, Kilmarnock,	32	" The Earl of Eglinton,	45
'Warm recollection of an absent friend,'		'As I have but slender pretensions,'
" Mr. Burness, Montrose,	32	" John Ballantine, Esq.,	45
'I this moment receive yours,'		'It gives me a secret comfort,'
" Mrs. Stewart, of Stair,	33	" Mrs. Dunlop,	46
'The hurry of my preparations,'		'Yours of the 9th current,'
" Mr. Robert Aiken,	33	" Dr. Moore,	47
'I was with Wilson, my printer,'		'Mrs. Dunlop has been so kind,'
" Miss Kennedy,	35	" Mr. Cleghorn, Saughton Mills,	49
'Permit me to present you with,'		'You will see by the above,'
" Dr. Mackenzie, Mauchline,	35	" Rev. G. Lawrie, Newmills,	49
'I never spent an afternoon among,'		'When I look at the date of your,'
" Mrs. Dunlop of Dunlop,	36	" Miss ———,	50
'I am truly sorry I was not,'		'I am so impatient to show you,'
" Mr. Archd. Lawrie,	37	" The Honourable Bailies of Canongate,	50
'I have, along with this, sent,'		'Edinburgh,
" Monsr. Archibald Lawrie,	37	'I am sorry to be told that,'
'If convenient, please return me,'		" The Earl of Buchan,	51
" Mr. Robert Muir,	37	'The honour your lordship has done,'
'Inclosed you have "Tam Samson,"'		" Mr. Peter Stuart, London,	52
" Miss Wilhelmina Alexander,	37	'You may think, and too justly,'
'Poets are such outré beings,'		" Dr. Moore,	52
" John Ballantine, Esq., Ayr,	38	'Pardon my seeming neglect,'
'Enclosed you have my first attempt,'		" John Ballantine, Esq.,	53
" Wm. Chalmers and John M'Adam,	38	'I will soon be with you now,'
'We, Robert Burns, by virtue,'		" The Hon. Henry Erskine,	53
" Mr. George Reid, Barquharie,	39	'I showed the enclosed political,'
'John Samson begged your pownie,'		" The Earl of Glencairn,	53
" James Dalrymple, Esq., Orangefield,	39	'I wanted to purchase a profile,'
'I suppose the devil is so elated,'		" Gavin Hamilton, Esq.,	54
" Sir John Whitefoord,	40	'Yours came safe, and I am,'
'Mr. Mackenzie, in Mauchline,'		" Mr. James Candlish, Glasgow College,	54
		'I was equally surprised and pleased,'

	Page		Page
To Mrs. Dunlop,	55	To Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	70
'I read your letter with watery eyes.'		'I wrote you from Edinburgh that,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	55	" William Inglis, Esq., Inverness,	70
'There is an affectation of gratitude,'		'Mr. Burns presents his most,'
" John Ballantine, Esq., Ayr,	56	" Mr. Josiah Walker, Blair of Athole,	70
'I have taken the liberty to send,'		'I have just time to write,'
" Mr. George Reid, Barquharie,	56	" Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	71
'The fewer words I can tell my,'		'Mr. Nicol and Mr. Carnegie,'
" Dr. Moore,	56	" Mr. Gilbert Burns,	71
'I received the books, and sent,'		'I arrived here safe yesterday evening,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	57	" Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	72
'Your criticisms, Madam, I understand,'		'I send you along with this,'
" Mr. William Dunbar, W.S.,	58	" Patrick Miller, Esq., Dalswinton,	72
'In justice to Spenser, I must,'		'I have been on a tour through,'
" The Rev. Dr. Hugh Blair,	58	" William Nicol, Edinburgh,	72
'I leave Edinburgh to-morrow morning,'		'I find myself very comfortable here,'
" James Johnson, Engraver, Edinburgh,	59	" William Cruikshank, Edinburgh,	73
'I have sent you a song never,'		'I have nothing, my dear Sir,'
" The Earl of Glencairn,	60	" Patrick Miller, Esq., Dalswinton,	73
'I go away to-morrow morning early,'		'I was spending a few days,'
" William Creech, Esq., Edinburgh,	60	" James Hoy, Esq., Gordon Castle,	74
'The enclosed I have just wrote,'		'I will defend my conduct in giving,'
" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	60	" Rev. John Skinner,	74
'If Mr. Alexr. Pattison,'		'Accept, in plain dull prose,'
" Mr. Pattison, Bookseller, Paisley,	60	" Miss Margaret Chalmers,	78
'I am sorry I was out of Edinburgh,'		'I send Charlotte the first number,'
" Mr. W. Nicol, High School, Edinburgh,	61	" Mr. James Candlish, Glasgow,	78
'I'm sitten down here, after seven,'		'If once I were gone from this scene,'
" Mr. James Smith, Linlithgow,	62	" Mrs. Dunlop of Dunlop,	79
'I date this from Mauchline,'		'I will bear the reproaches of,'
" Mr. William Nicol, Edinburgh,	62	" James Hoy, Esq., Gordon Castle,	80
'I am now arrived safe in,'		'I would have wrote you immediately,'
" Robert Ainslie, Esq.,	63	" Miss Chalmers,	81
'I write this on my tour through,'		'I just now have read yours.'
" Mr. James Smith, Linlithgow,	64	" Miss Margaret Chalmers,	82
'On our return, at a Highland gentleman's,'		'I have been at Dumfries,'
" Mr. John Richmond,	65	" Miss Chalmers,	82
'I am all impatience to hear,'		'I have one vexatious fault,'
" Robert Aiken, Esq., Ayr,	66	" Robert Ainslie, Esq., Edinburgh,	82
'The melancholy occasion of the foregoing,'		'I beg, my dear Sir, you would,'
" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	66	" Mr. Beugo, Engraver, Edinburgh,	83
'I have just got a letter from Scot,'		'A certain sourfaced acquaintance,'
" Robert Ainslie,	66	" Miss Mabane,	83
'There is one thing for which,'		'Here have I sat, my dear Madam,'
" Mr. Archibald Lawrie,	67	" Miss Chalmers, Harvieston,	83
'Here am I—that is all I can,'		'Here I am under the care of a surgeon,'
" Mr. Robert Ainslie, Jun., Dunse,	67	" Mr. Francis Howden, Edinburgh,	84
'From henceforth, my dear Sir,'		'The bearer of this will deliver,'
" St. James's Lodge, Tarbolton,	68	" Charles Hay, Esq.,	84
'I am truly sorry it is not,'		'The inclosed poem was written,'
" Mr. Robert Muir,	68	" Miss Chalmers, Harvieston,	84
'I intended to have written,'		'I begin this letter in answer,'
" Gavin Hamilton, Esq.,	69	" Mr. Richard Brown, Irvine,	85
'Here am I on my way to Inverness.'		'I have met with few things,'

Year 1788.		Page
To Mrs. Dunlop,	86	To Mr. Samuel Brown, 98
'After six weeks' confinement,'		'This, I hope, will find you,'
" Miss Chalmers,	86	" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh, 98
'Now for that wayward,'		'I am really uneasy about that,'
" The Earl of Glencairn,	86	" Mr. Robert Ainslie, 98
'I know your Lordship will disapprove,'		'I am two kind letters in your debt;'
" Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry,	87	" Mrs. Dunlop, 99
'When I had the honour of being,'		'I have been torturing my philosophy,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	88	" Mrs. Dunlop, 99
'Some things in your late letters,'		'This is the second day,'
" The Rev. John Skinner,	88	" Mr. Robert Ainslie, 100
'I have been a cripple now,'		'This is now the third day,'
" Richard Brown,	88	" Mr. Robert Ainslie, 100
'I received yours with the greatest,'		'This letter, my dear Sir, is only,'
" Miss Chalmers,	88	" Mr. Robert Ainslie, 100
'To-morrow, my dear madam, I leave,'		'I just now received your,'
" Mrs. Rose of Kilravock,	89	" Mrs. Dunlop, 101
'You are much indebted to some,'		'Yours of the 24th June is before me.'
" Richard Brown,	90	" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh, 102
'I cannot get the proper direction,'		'You injured me, my dear Sir,'
" Mr. William Cruikshank,	90	" Mr. George Lockhart, Glasgow, 103
'Apologies for not writing are,'		'I am just going for Nithsdale,'
" Robert Ainslie, Esq.,	91	" Mr. Alexander Cunningham, Edinburgh, 103
'I am just returned from Mr. Miller's,'		'My spur-galled, spavined Pegasus,'
" Richard Brown,	92	" Mrs. Dunlop, 104
'I have been out of the country,'		'Your kind letter welcomed me,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	92	" Mr. Robert M'Indoe, Glasgow, 105
'The last paragraph in yours,'		'I am vexed for nothing more,'
" Mr. Robert Muir,	92	" Mrs. Dunlop, 105
'I have partly changed my ideas,'		'I am in a fine disposition,'
" [Mr. William Nicol, Edinburgh],	93	" Mr. Robert Ainslie, Writer, 106
'My life, since I saw you last,'		'I received your last, my dear friend,'
" Miss Chalmers,	93	" Mr. Beugo, Engraver, Edinburgh, 107
'I know, my ever dear friend,'		'There is not in Edinburgh above,'
" Richard Brown,	94	" Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry, 108
'I am monstrosly to blame,'		'The scrapes and premunires into,'
" Mr. Robert Cleghorn,	94	" Mrs. Robert Burns, Mauchline, 109
'Yesterday, my dear Sir,'		'I received your kind letter,'
" [Gavin Hamilton],	95	" Miss Chalmers, Edinburgh, 109
'The language of refusal is,'		'Where are you? and how are you?'
" Miss Chalmers,	95	" Mr. Morison, Mauchline, 111
'I am indebted to you and,'		'Necessity obliges me to go into,'
" Mr. William Dunbar, W. S., Edinburgh, 95		" Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry, 111
'I have not delayed so long to write,'		'Though I am scarce able to hold,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	96	" Mrs. Dunlop of Dunlop, 112
'Your powers of reprehension must,'		'I have received twins, dear Madam,'
" Mr. James Smith, Linlithgow,	96	" Mr. Peter Hill, 112
'Beware of your Strasburgh,'		'I have been here in this country,'
" Professor Dugald Stewart,	97	" The Editor of "The Star," 113
'I inclose you one or two more,'		'Notwithstanding the opprobrious epithets,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	97	" Mrs. Dunlop, 115
'Dryden's Virgil has delighted me.'		'I had the pleasure of dining,'
		" Mr. James Johnson, Engraver, 116
		'I have sent you two more songs,'

	Page		Page
To Dr. Blacklock,	116	To Mr. William Burns, Saddler,	134
'As I hear nothing of your motions,		'I am extremely sorry at,
" Mr. John M'Murdo, Esq., Drumlanrig,	117	" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	134
'I write you this and the enclosed,'		'My trunk was unaccountably delayed,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	117	" Mrs. M'Murdo, Drumlanrig,	134
'Yours, dated Edinburgh, which,'		'I have finished the piece,'
" William Cruickshank,	118	" Mrs. Dunlop,	135
'I have not room, my dear friend,'		'You see, Madam, that I am,'
" Mr. John Tennant, Auchencroft,	118	" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	135
'I yesterday tried my cask,'		'Your duty-free favour of the,'
Year 1789.
To Mrs. Dunlop,	119	" Mr. William Burns, Newcastle-on-Tyne,	136
'This, dear Madam, is a morning,'		'I am happy to hear by yours,'
" Dr. Moore,	120	" Robert Graham, Esq.,	136
'As often as I think of writing to,'		'Though I intend making a little,'
" Mr. Robert Ainslie,	121	" Richard Brown, Port Glasgow,	137
'Many happy returns of the season,'		'I was in the country by accident,'
" Mr. M'Murdo,	121	" Mr. James Hamilton,	137
'A poet and a beggar are,'		'I send you by John Glover,'
" Professor Dugald Stewart,	122	" Gavin Hamilton,	138
'The inclosed sealed packet I sent,'		'It is indeed with the highest pleasure,'
" The Hon. Henry Erskine,	123	" Mr. John M'Auley, Writer, Dumbarton,	138
'There are two things which,'		'Though I am not without my fears,'
" Robert Cleghorn, Farmer,	123	" Mr. Robert Ainslie,	139
'I must take shame and confusion,'		'I am perfectly ashamed of,'
" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	124	" Mrs. Dunlop,	139
'I shall be in Edinburgh,'		'Will you take the effusions,'
" Mr. David Blair, Birmingham,	124	" Helen Maria Williams,	140
'My honour has lien bleeding,'		'Of the many problems in,'
" Alexander Cunningham, Esq.,	124	" Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry,	142
'When I saw in my last newspaper,		'The language of gratitude has been,'
" Robert Riddell, Esq.,	125	" Mr. David Sillar, Irvine,	144
'I wish from my inmost soul,'		'I was half in thoughts not,'
" Bishop Geddes,	125	" Robert Aiken, Writer,	144
'As I am conscious that,'		'Whether in the way of my trade,'
" The Right Hon. William Pitt,	126	" Mr. John Logan,	144
'While pursy burgesses crowd,'		'I intended to have written you,'
" Mr. James Burness,	127	" Mr. William Burns, Newcastle-on-Tyne,	145
'Why I did not write to you,'		'I received your letter, and am,'
" Mr. William Burns, Longtown,	128	" Mrs. Dunlop,	145
'I arrived from Edinburgh only,'		'I have mentioned in my last,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	129	" Mr. Peter Stuart, London,	147
'Here am I, my honoured friend,'		'The hurry of a farmer in this,'
" The Rev. P. Carfrae,	130	" Captain Riddell, Friars' Carse,	148
'I do not recollect to have,'		'Big with the idea of this important,'
" Mr. William Burns, Longtown,	131	" Mr. Robert Ainslie,	148
'In my last, I recommended,'		'I had written you long ere now,'
" Dr. Moore,	131	" Mr. Richard Brown,	149
'The gentleman who will deliver,'		'I have been so hurried,'
" Mr. William Burns,	132	" Mr. William Burns, Morpeth,	150
'I have stolen from my,'		'I would have written you sooner,'
" Mr. Peter Hill,	133	" R. Graham, Esq., of Fintry,	150
'I will make no excuse, my dear,'		'I have a good while had a wish,'
		" Mrs. Dunlop,	152
		'Many thanks, dear Madam,'

	Page		Page
To Lady Glencairn,	153	To Alex. Fergusson, Esq., J.P.,	170
'The honour you have done,'		'I have sought you all over the town,'
" Lady W. M. Constable,	154	Answer to the Petition of Thomas Johnston, 170
'In vain have I from day to day,'		'1. Whether the petitioner has been,'
" Provost Maxwell, of Lochmaben,	154	To Collector Mitchell,	171
'As my friend Mr. Graham goes,'		'I shall not fail to wait on,'
" Mr. George Sutherland, Playwright,	155	" Crauford Tait, Esq., Edinburgh,	172
'Jogging home yesternight,'		'Allow me to introduce to your,'
Year 1790.
To Mr. Gilbert Burns,	155	" Prof. Dugald Stewart, Edinburgh,	173
'I mean to take advantage of,'		'I will be extremely happy if,'
" Mr. William Dunbar, W.S.,	155	" Francis Grose, Esq., F.S.A.,	173
'Since we are here creatures of a day,'		'I believe among all our,'
" Mrs. Dunlop,	156	" Francis Grose, Esq., F.S.A.,	173
'It has been owing to unremitting,'		'Among the many witch stories,'
" Mr. G. S. Sutherland,	157	" Mrs. Dunlop,	175
'I was much disappointed,'		'Fate has long owed me,'
" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	157	Year 1791.
'No! I will not say one word about,'		To William Dunbar, W.S.,	176
" Mr. W. Nicol,	159	'I am not gone to Elysium,'
'That damned mare of yours is dead,'		" Mr. Peter Hill,	176
" William Burns, Newcastle-on-Tyne,	160	'Take these three guineas,'
'I would have written you sooner,'		" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	177
" Dr. Mundell, Dumfries,	161	'Many happy returns of the season,'
'The bearer, Janet Nievison,'		" Mrs. Dunlop,	177
" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	161	'When I tell you, Madam,'
'I beg your pardon, my dear and,'		" Rev. Arch. Alison,	178
" Mr. Hill,	162	'You must by this time have,'
'At a late meeting of the Monkland,'		" Rev. G. Baird, London,	179
" Mrs. Dunlop,	163	'Why did you, my dear Sir,'
'I have just now, my ever honoured,'		" Mrs. Graham, of Fintry,	180
" Mr. Alexander Findlater, Dumfries,	164	'Whether it is that the story,'
'Mrs. B., like a true goodwife,'		" Mr. Peter Hill,	180
" Dr. Moore,	164	'I shall say nothing to your mad,'
'Coming into town this morning,'		" Dr. Moore,	181
" Mr. Murdoch, London,	165	'I do not know, Sir, whether,'
'I received a letter from you,'		" Mr. Alex. Cunningham, Edinburgh,	183
" Mr. Robert Cleghorn, Saughton Mills, 166		'I received your first letter,'
'Do not ask me, my dear Sir,'		" John Ballantine, Esq., Ayr,	184
" John M'Murdo, Esq., Drumlanrig,	167	'While here I sit, sad and,'
'Now that you are over with,'		" Mr. Alexander Dalziel, Findlayston,	184
" Mrs. Dunlop,	167	'I have taken the liberty to frank,'
'After a long day's toil, plague,'		" Lady E. Cunningham,	185
" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	167	'I would, as usual, have availed,'
'Forgive me, my once dear,'		" Mrs. Dunlop,	185
" Dr. Anderson,	168	'I am once more able,'
'I am much indebted to my,'		" Alexander Fraser Tytler, Esq.,	186
" Miss Craik, Kirkcudbrightshire,	168	'Nothing less than the unfortunate,'
'Some rather unlooked-for accidents,'		" Charles Sharpe, Esq., of Hoddam,	187
" Mr. David Newall, Writer, Dumfries, 169		'It is true, Sir, you are,'
'Enclosed is a state of the account,'		" Lady W. M. Constable,	188
" Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry,	169	'Nothing less than the unlucky,'
'The very kind letter you did me,'		" Sir John Sinclair,	188
		'The following circumstance has,'

	Page		Page
To _____,	189	To J. Leven, Esq., Edinburgh,	202
'I am exceedingly to blame,'		'I have sealed and secured,
" _____,	190	" William Creech, Esq., Bookseller,	202
'Thou eunuch of language,'		'I this moment have yours,'
" Mr. John Somerville, Edinburgh,	190	" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	203
'Allow me, my dear Sir, to,'		'This will be presented to you,'
" Mr. Alex. Findlater,	190	" Mr. Stephen Clarke, Edinburgh,	203
'I am both much surprised and,'		'Mr. Burns begs leave to present,'
" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	191	" Robert Riddell, Esq., of Glenriddell,	203
'Let me interest you, my dear,'		'On rummaging over some old papers,'
" Rev. William Moodie, Edinburgh,	192	" The Duke of Queensberry,	203
'This will be presented to you,'		'Will your Grace pardon this,'
Letter dictated for Clarke,	192	" Mrs. Dunlop,	204
'It may be deemed presumption,'		'Do not blame me for it, Madam,'
To John Mitchell, Esq., Dumfries,	193	" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	205
'A very pressing occasion,'		'No! I will not attempt an apology.'
" Mr. Peter Hill, Bookseller,	193	" Mr. Corbet, Excise,	207
'I take Glenriddell's kind offer,		'When I was honoured with,'
" Miss Davies,	193	" Mrs. Dunlop,	207
'I understand my very worthy,'		'I have this moment, my dear Madam,'
" Miss Davies,	194	" Mrs. Dunlop,	208
'It is impossible, Madam, that,'		'I had been from home,'
" Mr. Thomas Sloan, Manchester,	195	" Captain Johnstone, Edinburgh,	208
'Suspense is worse than disappointment,'		'I have just read your prospectus,'
" The Earl of Buchan,	196	" Mrs. Walter Riddell, Woodley Park,	209
'Language sinks under the ardour,'		'I return you my most sincere,'
A Letter for Mr. Clarke,	196	" Mrs. Walter Riddell, Woodley Park,	209
'Most sincerely do I regret,'		'I am thinking to send my "Address,"'
To James Gracie, Esq., Banker,	197	" Miss Fontenelle,	209
'I have yours anent Crombie's bill,'		'In such a bad world as ours,'
" Colonel Fullarton, of Fullarton,	197	" Mrs. Dunlop,	210
'I have just this moment got,'		'I shall be in Ayrshire, I think,'
" Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry,	197	" Miss Mary Peacock, Edinburgh,	211
'I ought to have written you,'		'I have written so often to you,'
" Mr. Corbet, Excise,	198	" R. Graham, Esq., Fintry,	211
'I have in my time taken up,'		'I have been surprised, confounded,'
" Mr. Peter Hill, Bookseller,	198	" Mrs. Dunlop,	211
'I was never more unfit for writing.'		'A hurry of business, thrown in,'
" Robert Ainslie, Esq., Edinburgh,	199
'Can you minister to a mind diseased?'		Year 1793.
" Mrs. Dunlop,	199	To Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry,	213
'Many thanks to you, Madam,'		'I am this moment favoured,'
Year 1792.		" Mrs. Graham of Fintry,	215
To Mr. James Clarke, Moffat,	200	'To Mrs. Graham of Fintry,'
'I received yours this moment,'		" Mr. William Nicol,	215
" Mr. William Smellie, Printer,	200	'O thou, wisest among the Wise,'
'I sit down, my dear Sir,'		" Alex. Cunningham, Esq., Edinburgh,	216
" Alex. Cunningham, Esq., Edinburgh,	201	'What are you doing?'
'To-morrow or some day soon,'		" Mrs. Walter Riddell,	216
" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	201	'You were so very good as to,'
'I send you by the bearer,'		" William Creech, Esq., Bookseller,	217
" Mr. James Clarke, Moffat,	202	'I understand that my book,'
'If this finds you at Moffat,'		" John M'Murdo, Esq., Drumlanrig,	217
		'Will Mr. M'Murdo do me,

	Page		Page
To The Earl of Glencairn,	217	To Mr. Robert Cleghorn, Saughton Mills,	229
'When you cast your eye on,'		'My best compliments to Mrs. Cleghorn,'
" Mrs. Graham of Fintry,	217	" Mrs. Dunlop,	229
'It is probable, Madam, that,'		'As I am in a complete Decemberish,'
" Robert Riddell, Esq., of Glenriddell,	218	Year 1794.
'When you and I, my dear Sir,'		To Robert Graham, Esq., of Fintry,	230
" Miss Benson, York,	218	'I am going to venture on,'
'Among many things for which,'		" The Earl of Buchan,	231
" The Hon. the Provost, Bailies, and Town Council of Dumfries,	218	'Will your Lordship allow me,'
'The literary taste and liberal,'		" Mr. Samuel Clark, Jun., Dumfries,	232
" Mr. White, Teacher,	219	'I was, I know, drunk last night,'
'Mr. White will accept of this book,'		" Mr. Samuel Clark, Junior, Dumfries,	232
" Patrick Miller, Esq., of Dalswinton,	219	'I recollect something of a,'
'My poems have just come out,'		" Mrs. Riddell, Woodley Park,	232
" John Francis Erskine, Esq., of Mar,	219	'I dare say that this is the first,'
'Degenerate as human nature is,'		" Mrs. Riddell, Woodley Park,	233
" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	221	'I return your common-place book.'
'I would have written you sooner,'		" Mrs. Riddell, Woodley Park,	233
" Mrs. Riddell, Woodley Park,	221	'I have this moment got the song,'
'Had Fate put it in my power,'		" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	234
" Mrs. Riddell,	222	'Canst thou minister,'
'I have often told you, my dear friend,'		" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	235
" Mr. Robert Ainslie,	222	'I am half angry with you,'
'I am d—nably out of humour,'		" Mr. James Johnson,	235
" Miss Lesley Baillie, of Mayfield,	223	'I send you by my friend Mr. Wallace,'
'I have just put the last hand to,'		" Alexander Findlater, Dumfries,	235
" Miss M'Murdo, Drumlanrig,	223	'Inclosed are the two schemes.'
'Amid the profusion of compliments,'		" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	236
" John M'Murdo, Esq., of Drumlanrig,	224	'Since I wrote to you the last,'
'There is a beautiful, simple,'		" Miss ———,	237
" [Gavin Hamilton, Esq., Mauchline],	224	'Nothing short of a kind of,'
'I understand that our friend,'		" David M'Culloch, Esq., Gatehouse,	238
" [John M'Murdo, Esq., Drumlanrig],	225	'My long projected journey through,'
'. . . This is a painful disagreeable letter,'		" Mrs. Dunlop,	238
" Captain Miller, Dalswinton,	225	'Here in a solitary inn,'
'The following ode is on a subject,'		" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	239
" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	225	'I thank you for your kind present,'
'I [have not lately had an,'		" Captain John Hamilton, Dumfries,	239
" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	226	'It is even so—you are the only,'
'I was much obliged to you,'		" Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	239
" Mrs. Riddell, Woodley Park,	226	'By a carrier of yesterday,'
'I will wait on you, my ever,'		" Patrick Miller, Jun., Esq., of Dalswinton,	240
" Mrs. Riddell, Woodley Park,	226	'Your offer is indeed truly generous,'
'I meant to have called on you,'		" Mrs. Dunlop, in London,	240
" Miss Fontenelle, Dumfries Theatre,	227	'I have been prodigiously disappointed,'
'Enclosed is the Address,'		Year 1795.
" Captain ———,	227	To Captain John Hamilton,	241
'Heated as I was with wine,'		'I enclose you three guineas,'
" Alex. Fraser Tytler, Esq., Edinburgh,	227	" Captain John Hamilton,	242
'A poor caitiff, driving as I am,'		'I was from home, and had not,'
" John M'Murdo, Esq.,	228	" Mrs. Walter Riddell,	242
'It is said that we take the,'		'Mr. Burns' compliments to,'
" Mr. Robert Cleghorn, Saughton Mills,	229	" Mr. Heron, of Heron,	242
'I have just bought a quire of post,'		'I enclose you some copies,'

	Page		Page
To The Editor of the Morning Chronicle ,	243	To Mr. Peter Hill, Edinburgh,	250
'You will see by your subscribers' list,'		'By the chaise, the driver of,'
" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	244	" Mrs. Dunlop,	250
'For Hyslop's plate, many thanks,'		'These many months you have been,'
" Richard A. Oswald, Esq., of Auchin-	244	" Mrs. Walter Riddell,	250
cruive,		'Par accident, meeting with Mrs. Scott,'
'You see the danger of patronising,'		" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	250
" Mr. John Edgar, Edinburgh,	244	'How are you, my dear Friend,'
'I understand that I am to incur,'		" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	251
" John Syme, Esq.,	245	'You should have had this,'
'You know that among other,'		" Mrs. Walter Riddell,	251
" William Creech, Esq.,	246	'I am in such miserable health,'
'I had intended to have troubled,'		" Mr. Clarke, Forfar,	251
" Mr. Wm. Lorimer, Senior,	246	'Still, still the victim of affliction!'
'I called for you yester-night,'		" Mr. Alex. Cunningham,	252
" Mr. Robert Cleghorn, Saughton,	247	'I received yours here this moment,'
'Enclosed you have Clarke's "Gaffer Gray,"'		" Mr. Gilbert Burns,	253
" David Staig, Esq., Dumfries,	247	'It will be no very pleasing news,'
'I know, Sir, that anything which,'		" Mr. James Armour, Mauchline,	253
" Mrs. Walter Riddell, Halleaths,	248	'For Heaven's sake, and,'
'I have perused with great,'		" Mrs. Dunlop,	253
" Mrs. Walter Riddell, Halleaths,	248	'I have written you so often,'
'I think there is little doubt,'		" Mr. James Burness, Montrose,	254
" Mrs. Walter Riddell, Halleaths,	248	'When you offered me money,'
'A severe domestic misfortune,'		" James Gracie, Esq., Dumfries,	255
Year 1796.		'It would [be] doing high injustice,'
To Mr. Robert Cleghorn, Saughton Mills,	249	" Mrs. Burns,	255
'The foregoing had been sent,'		'I delayed writing until,'
" Mr. James Johnson, Edinburgh,	249	" Mr. John Clark, Esq., Locherwoods,	256
'Mr. Clarke will have acquainted,'		'My hours of bathing have,'
" Mrs. Walter Riddell, Halleaths,	249	" James Armour, Mauchline,	256
'I cannot express my gratitude,		'Do, for heaven's sake, send,'

CORRESPONDENCE WITH CLARINDA, 257-288

INTRODUCTION,	257	VII. Jan. 3rd,	262
Year 1787.		'You have, my Clarinda, much misconstrued your friend.'
I. Dec. 6th,	258	VIII. Jan. 5th,	263
'Must ever regret that I so lately got an ac- quaintance I shall ever highly esteem.'		'One of these hours my-dear Clarinda blest me with yesternight.'
II. Dec. 8th,	259	IX. Jan. 8th,	264
'An unlucky fall from a coach.'		'I am delighted, charming Clarinda, with your honest enthusiasm for religion.'
III. Dec. 12th,	259	X. Jan. 10th,	265
'Your friendship, Madam! By heavens I was never proud before.'		'What I said in my last, the powers of fuddling sociality only know.'
IV. Dec. 20th,	259	XI. Jan. 12th,	266
'Pay my addresses to a married woman!'		'Your thoughts on religion, Clarinda.'
V. Dec. 28th,	260	XII. Jan. 12th,	266
'Do not think I flatter you or have a design upon you.'		'Offend me, my dearest angel! You can- not offend me.'
Year 1788.		XIII. Jan. 14th,	266
VI. Jan. 3rd,	261	'Ashamed of thus scrawling whole sheets of incoherence.'

	Page		Page
XIV. Jan. 15th,	267	XXXIII. Feb. 23rd,	278
'O Clarinda! why will you wound my soul?'		'I set off to-morrow for Dumfriesshire.'
XV. Jan. 19th,	268	XXXIV. March 2nd,	279
'What luxury of bliss I was enjoying this time yesternight!'		'I have been tossed about through the country ever since I wrote you.'
XVI. Jan. 20th-21st,	269	XXXV. March 6th,	280
'Clarinda, may I reckon on your friendship for life?'		'I own myself guilty, Clarinda; I should have written you.'
XVII. Jan. 21st,	270	XXXVI. March 7th,	280
'O, what a fool I am in love!'		'I have been stung with your reproach for unkindness.'
XVIII. Jan. 24th,	270	XXXVII. March 17th,	282
'Why, or how, she should fall to the blessed lot of a poor harum-scarum poet.'		'I will meet you to-morrow, Clarinda, as you appoint.'
XIX. Jan. 25th,	271	XXXVIII. March 18th,	282
'Be reconciled, my angel, to your God, yourself, and me.'		'I thank you for all the happiness bestowed on me yesterday.'
XX. Jan. 26th,	272	XXXIX. March 19th,	282
'I was on the way, my Love , to meet you.'		'Clarinda, will that envious night-cap hinder you from appearing at the window?'
XXI. Jan. 27th-28th,	272	XL. March 21st,	283
'I have almost given up the excise idea.'		'Clarinda and I will make our pilgrimage together.'
XXII. Jan. 29th,	272
'Could you think that I intended to hurt you by anything I said yesternight?'		Year 1789.
XXIII. Feb. 1st,	273	XXI. March 9th,	283
'I am miserably stupid this morning. Yes- terday I dined with a Baronet.'		'You will pardon me, Madam, if I do not carry my complaisance so far.'
XXIV. Feb. 3rd,	273
'Yesternight I was happy. . . . You are an angel, Clarinda.'		Year 1790.
XXV. Feb. 7th,	274	XLII. February,	284
'Never woman more entirely possessed my soul.'		'I have indeed been ill, Madam, the whole winter.'
XXVI. Feb. 13th,	275
'Name the terms on which you wish to see me, to correspond with me.'		Year 1791.
XXVII. Feb. 13th,	275	XLIII. August,	284
'You are only answerable to God in such a matter.'		'I have received both your letters, Madam.'
XXVIII. Feb. 14th,	276	XLIV. November 23rd,	285
'If I have robbed you of a friend, God for- give me. But, Clarinda, be comforted.'		'It is extremely difficult for me to deny a lady anything.'
XXIX. Feb. 14th,	276	XLV. Dec. 15th,	286
'Clarinda, matters are grown very serious with us.'		'I have some merit, my ever dearest of women.'
XXX. Feb. 15th,	277	XLVI. Dec. 27th,	286
'Never be discouraged at all this. . . . Be comforted, my love!'		'Ae fond kiss and then we sever.'
XXXI. Feb. 18th,	277
'Every mile-stone that marked my progress from Clarinda.'		Year 1793.
XXXII. Feb. 22nd,	278	XLVII. March,	287
'I wrote you, my dear Madam, the moment I alighted in Glasgow.'		'The recollection of joys that are no more.'
		Year 1794.
		XLVIII. June 25th,	288
		'First let me be informed of you how I shall write you!'	