

DAVID WILLIAMS

Faulkner's Women

THE MYTH AND THE MUSE

MCGILL-QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY PRESS
MONTREAL AND LONDON 1977

CONTENTS

PREFACE	xiii
PART ONE: INTRODUCTION
1 Cultural Failure and the Modulation of Idiom: A Critical Orientation to Faulkner's Women	3
2 The Portrait of the Feminine in Faulkner's Early Novels: Primitivistic Materials Antecedent to Form	31
PART TWO: INCARNATION
PROLOGUE	49
3 "The Heart's Darling" and the Brothers Compson: The Sound and the Fury	61
4 As the Mother of Death Lay Dying: As I Lay Dying	97
5 The Profaned Temple: Rational Crime and Draconian Justice in Sanctuary	127
6 Lambence in a Grove: "An Older Light than Ours" in Light in August	157
EPILOGUE	185

PART THREE: INDIVIDUATION

Prolegomena to a Study of Olympian Art	191
7 Fall of the Goddess: The Rise of a Female Personality in The Snopes Trilogy and "An Odor of Verbena"	197
8 Reformation of the Whore: Woman and Goddess in a Memphis Sportin' House: The Reivers	227
CONCLUSION	242
NOTES	249
INDEX	259