

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Abbreviations	xi
Introduction: Challenges and Opportunities for the Study of German	1
Rachel J. Halverson and Carol Anne Costabile-Heming
1: German Studies: The Short Version	15
Frank Trommler
I. Curriculum
2: Ten Years of “The Making of Modern Europe”—Language, History, and Culture: A Retrospective	31
Lynne Tatlock
3: Medieval Studies within German Studies: The Nibelungenlied and Hartmann von Aue’s Der arme Heinrich	52
Albrecht Classen
II. Initiatives
4: Thriving in the New Normal: Meeting the Challenges of Doing More with Less in Twenty-First-Century German Studies	71
Kathleen Condray
5: Responding to a Changing Profession: A Reflection on AATG Programs and Their Effects on German at a Liberal Arts Institution	89
Gregory H. Wolf

- 6: EIKK: A Case for Professional Development 104
Rachel J. Halverson
- 7: The KEFKO Summer Seminar in Leipzig: Making
 Sense of the Proficiency Assessment to Articulate
 Program Curriculum and Study Abroad 114
Regina Braker

III. Research

- 8: Leadership and Its Ripple Effect on Research 137
Aleidine J. Moeller and Sheri Hurlbut
- 9: Woher und wohin? Twenty-Six Years of Die
Unterrichtspraxis/Teaching German 155
Kurt Buhanan and Glenn S. Levine
- 10: Matching Student and Teaching Perceptions for the Retention of University German Students 200
Teresa R. Bell
- 11: “Guidelines” for Future Professionals: 226
 A Case for Graduate Training in Assessment
Traci S. O’Brien

IV. The New Millennium

- 12: Enhancing and Sustaining University German
 Programs through Consortium Building 251
Lynn Marie Kutch
- 13: An Immodest Proposal: Reenvisioning German
 Studies through European Integration 272
Martin Kagel and William Collins Donahue
- Selected Bibliography 291
- Contributors 303
- Index 309