

CONTENTS

Introduction	vii
Jean J. Schensul and Margaret D. LeCompte
1. Using Ethnography to Strengthen and Evaluate Intervention Programs	1
Bonnie K. Nastasi and Marlene J. Berg
Introduction	1
The Process of Developing Intervention Programs	2
Using Ethnography in Program Development: Case Studies	12
Program Design/Planning	16
Program Implementation: Documenting Process and Program Modification	27
Program Evaluation	36
The Unique Contributions of Ethnography to Program Development	42
References	48
Appendixes	50

2. Using Ethnography to Influence Public Policy	57
G. Alfred Hess, Jr.
Introduction	57
Setting the Policy Agenda	61
Targeting the Public	76
Cooperating with Policymakers	88
Using the Courts	93
Conclusion	110
References	112
Suggested Resources	113
3. Using Ethnography to Enhance Public Programming	115
Lynne Williamson, Jeremy Brecher, Ruth Glasser, and Jean J. Schensul
Introduction	115
Collaboration in Public Ethnography and Public Programming	118
Case Examples	130
The Brass Workers History Project	130
Community and Academic History Projects: A Creative Interplay	150
Auspicious Signs: Tibetan Arts in New England	161
Conclusions	172
References	177
Suggested Resources	178
Index	179
About the Authors, Artists, and Editors	185