143 Applying a Systems-Management Approach
146 The Process and the Product
147 The "Systems Approach" to Instructional Programming
151 A Final Note

Part III
153 Techniques for Solving Some Common Problems

9
155 Screening and Diagnosis
157 The Nature of Screening Activities
162 Planning a Screening Program
166 Techniques, Procedures, and Instruments for Screening
182 Implementation and Follow-Up

10
185 Communicating Diagnostic-Prescriptive Information

11
200 Preparing and Selecting Remedial Materials
200 Basic Criteria for Remedial Materials
205 User Preparation
208 Identification of Remedial Material Areas
214 Choosing and Preparing Materials
219 Summary

12
220 Delivery of Service Alternatives
229 Specially Trained Personnel Models
230 Models that Restructure the School
232 Models Focusing on Internal Support Services

239 Summary

13
240 Handling Behavior Problems
242 Observable Behaviors
245 Situations in which Problem Behaviors Appear
247 Responses to Problem Behaviors
248 Effects of Others' Responses upon the Child
250 General Strategies for Alleviating Problem Behaviors
266 Summary

14
267 Counseling
268 Counseling the Learning Disabled Person
274 Counseling Family and Friends of the Learning Disabled
283 Counseling the Teacher of the Learning Disabled
287 Summary

Part IV
289 A Systematic Strategy for Remediation

15
291 Analysis of the Educational Task
294 Final Task Description
295 Assumptions Regarding Entering Behavior
296 Flowchart Task Analysis
302 Discrimination Task Analysis
310 Generalization Task Analysis
312 Combining Discrimination, Flowchart, and Generalization Analyses

16
314 Preparation of Criterion Measures
315 The Source of Criterion Measures
315 Subcriterion Measures
317 The Need for Direct Measurement
321 Covering the Range of Possible Situations
321 Criterion Measures Do Not Teach
323 Criterion Measures Must Be Relevant to the Task
324 A Final Note on Criterion Measures

17
326 Preparation of Objectives
327 Student Behavior in Objectives

17
326 Preparation of Objectives
327 Student Behavior in Objectives

328 Measurable Objectives
329 Describing the Conditions for Performance
331 Preparing Objectives from the Task Analysis
332 Preparing Objectives from Criterion Measures
334 A Final Note About Objectives

18
336 Preparation of Instructional Sequences
346 A Checklist for Instructional Sequences
350 Knowledge-of-Results, Feedback, or Reinforcement
351 A Final Note on Instructional Sequences

19
353 Implementation and Revision
354 Why Test and Revise?
354 Individual Testing
356 Group Testing
358 A Strategy and Checklist for Revision
361 Revise the Instruction or the Criterion Measure?
362 A Final Note about Program Implementation and Revision

20
364 An Illustration of the Systems Approach
364 The Case of Deborah L.

Part V
377 Appendixes

A
378 Examples of Task Analysis
378 From a Program Titled "Decoding Words"
379 From a Program Titled "Beginning Multiplication Concepts"
381 From a Program Titled "Place Values"
382 From a Program Titled "Map Studies"
383 From a Program Titled "Base Six Numeration"
385 From a Program Titled "Working with Sets"

B
388 A Glossary of Learning Disability Terms

328 Measurable Objectives
329 Describing the Conditions for Performance
331 Preparing Objectives from the Task Analysis
