

CONTENTS

	Introduction	1
1	Leading a Breakthrough Service Is Different	9
	What great service leaders know: leading a breakthrough service is different.
	What great service leaders do: they take steps to ensure repeated memorable service encounters.
2	Shaping Service Strategies That Deliver Results	31
	What great service leaders know: customers buy results and values, not services or products.
	What great service leaders do: they focus on results and value, as well as on the employee and customer value equations that produce them.
3	Designing Operating Strategies That Support the Service Vision	53
	What great service leaders know: the best service operating strategies don't require trade-offs.
	What great service leaders do: they foster both/and thinking in designing winning operating strategies.
4	Creating and Capitalizing on Internal Quality— "A Great Place to Work"	74
	What great service leaders know: great service starts with the frontline employee.
	What great service leaders do: they hire for attitude, train for skills.

5	The Nuts and Bolts of Breakthrough Service Operations	105
	What great service leaders know: effective service operating strategies have to create value for employees, customers, and investors.
	What great service leaders do: they ensure the achievement of the leverage and edge that produces win-win-win results—the service trifecta.
6	Develop Winning Support Systems	130
	What great service leaders know: the best uses of technology and other support systems create frontline service heroes and heroines.
	What great service leaders do: they use support systems to elevate important service jobs and eliminate the worst ones.
7	Services Marketing: Foster Customer Ownership	164
	What great service leaders know: satisfying customers is not enough.
	What great service leaders do: they take steps to develop a core of customers who are owners.
8	Leading for the Future of Services	191
	What great service leaders know: their current beliefs about the future of services are wrong.
	What great service leaders do: they build agile service organizations that learn, innovate, and adapt.
	Epilogue: One Last Story	225
	Appendix: Service Trends and Take-Aways	235
	Notes	247
	Acknowledgments	259
	Index	261
	About the Authors	273