

REWARDING RESULTS

Motivating Profit Center Managers

Kenneth A. Merchant
Harvard Business School

Harvard Business School Press
Boston, Massachusetts

Contents

Foreword by Richard F. Vancil	ix
Acknowledgments	xv
Introduction	1
1. Using Contracts to Motivate Profit Center Managers	9
2. Trade-offs in Motivational Contracts	23
3. Using Short-Term Accounting Earnings to Exert Consistent Short-Term Performance Pressure	51
4. Correcting for the Short-Term Bias in Accounting Measures of Performance	63
5. The Controllability Problem, Part I: Deciding Whether to Exclude Uncontrollable Elements from Earnings-Based Performance Measures	87
6. The Controllability Problem, Part II: Deciding Whether to Adjust for Uncontrollable Influences After the Fact	109
7. Using Motivational Contract Elements for Nonmotivational Purposes	143
8. Evaluating Contract Effectiveness, Part I: The Incidence of Myopia and Earnings Management	161
9. Evaluating Contract Effectiveness, Part II: Foregone Motivation and Excessive Compensation	197
10. Designing and Managing Good Motivational Contracts	209
Appendix: Research Method	229
References	253
Index	263