

CONTENTS

1	Social Media Data Mining Becomes Ordinary	1
	Data Abundance and Its Consequences	1
	Researching Ordinary Social Media Data Mining	11
2	Why Study Social Media Data Mining?	19
	Introduction	19
	Four Characteristics of Social Media: Participation, Sharing, Intimacy and Monetisation	21
	What Is Social Media Data Mining?	29
	Conclusion	38
3	What Should Concern Us About Social Media Data Mining? Key Debates	41
	Introduction	41
	Critiques of (Social Media) Data Mining	44
	Less Privacy, More Surveillance	44
	Discrimination and Control	47
	Methodological Concerns	49
	Issues of Access and Inequality	52
	Seeking Agency in Data Mining Structures	53
	Worker Agency	56
	User Agency	58
	Techno-agency	60

	Postscript on Agency: Acting Ethically in Times of Data Mining	62
	Conclusion	64
4	Public Sector Experiments with Social Media Data Mining	67
	Introduction	67
	Action Research and the Production of Publics	70
	Knowing and Forming Publics	70
	Action-Researching Public Uses of Social Media Data Mining	71
	Social Media Data Mining for the Public Good?	76
	Uses of Social Media Data Mining	76
	Understanding Publics, Desiring Numbers	79
	Constituting Publics	87
	How Keywords Constitute Publics	87
	How Expertise (Or Its Absence) Constitutes Publics	89
	Working Around Data Non-abundance to Constitute Publics	91
	Conclusion: What Should Concern Us About Public Sector Social Media Data Mining?	94
5	Commercial Mediations of Social Media Data	99
	Introduction	99
	The Practices of Intermediary Insights Companies and the Concerns of Workers	104
	Who Companies and Interviewees Are	104
	What Companies and Interviewees Do	106
	Social Media Data Mining as Moral and Economic Practice	111
	Accessing 'Public' Data	113
	Drawing Ethical Boundaries	116
	Transparency as Ethics	118
	Who Benefits from Social Media Data Mining?	120
	Regulation as Ethical Solution?	122
	Conclusion: Concerns and Ethics in Commercial Social Media Data Mining Practice	124

6	What Happens to Mined Social Media Data?	129
	Introduction	129
	Interviewees, Organisations, and Their Uses of Social Media Data Mining	132
	The Consequences of Social Media Data Mining	137
	Concrete Action and Organisational Complexity	137
	Organisational Change and the Quality of Working Life	141
	Data Evangelism and 'The Fetishism of the 1000'	144
	'The Parasite on the Rhino'?
	Reflections on Ethical Issues	151
	Conclusion: Consequences and Concerns	155
7	Fair Game? User Evaluations of Social Media Data Mining	159
	Introduction	159
	What Do Users Think? Studies of Users' Views	162
	Quantitative Studies of Attitudes to Digital Data Tracking	162
	Qualitative Studies of Social Media User and Attitudes to Social Media Data Mining, and the 'Contextual Integrity' Framework	166
	Focus Group Methods for Researching User Perspectives	169
	What Do Users Think? Focus Group Findings	171
	Diverse Perspectives	171
	Common Threads: Concerns About Fairness	179
	What Concerns Users? Fairness, Transparency, Contextual Integrity	185
8	Doing Good with Data: Alternative Practices, Elephants in Rooms	189
	Introduction	189
	Elephants in Rooms: Academic Social Media Data Mining	191
	Overview of Academic Social Media Data Mining	191
	Concerns and Criticisms	193
	Un-Black-Boxing Social Media Data Mining	198

Alternative Practices: Data Activism	202
The Open Data Movement	202
Re-active and Pro-active Data Activism	205
Doing Good, Or Doing Bad, Through
Data Activism?	212
Conclusion	217
9 New Data Relations and the Desire for Numbers	221
Established Concerns	222
Emerging Concerns	224
The Desire for Numbers	224
(Not) Thinking Critically About Data-making	225
Work Effects	228
Doing Good with Data	230
New Data Relations	232
Doing Better with Data	234
Bibliography	237
Index	255