

Contents

Preface	ix
PART I Language as Constitutive
1 Designative and Constitutive Views	3
2 How Language Grows	51
3 Beyond Information Encoding	83
PART II From Descriptive to Constitutive
4 The Hobbes-Locke-Condillac Theory	103
5 The Figuring Dimension of Language	129
6 Constitution 1: The Articulation of Meaning	177
7 Constitution 2: The Creative Force of Discourse	264
PART III Further Applications
8 How Narrative Makes Meaning	291
9 The Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis	320
10 Conclusion: The Range of Human Linguistic Capacity	332
Index	347