

C O N T E N T S

INTRODUCTION	i
A Note on Abbreviations.	v
P A R T I
THE GOTHIC NOVEL, THE SCHAUERROMAN, AND ROMANTIC FICTION.	1
1. Romantic Fiction and the Late Eighteenth-Century Milieu.	1
2. Interrelationships between English and German Fiction in the Romantic Period.	17
3. The Problem of the German Schauerroman.	20
4. The Problem of the English Gothic Novel.	32
5. The Gothic Novel and the Schauerroman.	38
6. The Terms 'Gothic' and 'Romantic'.	45
7. The Obvious Interrelationship between the English and German Romantic Novel.	57
8. Subtler Relationships and Neglected Novelists: Carl Grosse and Mrs Radcliffe.	86
9. Imagination, Nature, Myth and Romantic Fiction.	102
P A R T II
INTERRELATIONSHIP IN THE FICTIONAL STRUCTURES AND WORLD- VIEW OF ENGLISH AND GERMAN ROMANTIC FICTION.
1. CHARACTER.	107
i) The Villain Hero	109
ii) The Young Hero	127
iii) The Women Characters	137
2. PLOT.	166
i) The Fall as a Structural Principle.	166
ii) Subplots	187
iii) Arcs of Tension	197

3. SETTING.	215
i) The Landscape	215
ii) Gardens	241
4. SUBLIMITY.	265
i) The New Romantic Poetics of Terror	265
ii) Grosse's Forgotten Theory of the Sublime	270
iii) Mrs Radcliffe and Jean Paul: the Poetic Integration of Aesthetic Ideas.	308
iv) Tieck's Youthful "Über das Erhabene"	322
CONCLUSION	338
APPENDIX: Carl Friedrich August Grosse (1768 - 1847): A Quest for Identity	344
BIBLIOGRAPHY	352
INDEX	397